

THE SIMPLE LIGHTING LED BUYING GUIDE

WHAT IS AN LED?

An LED (light emitting diode) is a modern, efficient lighting. The latest LEDs rival halogen bulbs for light quality but with loads of added benefits. LED bulbs are eco friendly, containing efficient, have an average lifespan of 25,000 hours and can save up to 90% in your energy costs!

ALL ABOUT THE BASE?

Generally, most people are surprised to find that there are quite so many different bulb fittings around. But this is a good thing. The most important bit is the current size and shape to fit the place you need.

The ones below are the most common household bulbs, take a look at your current bulb and compare to the pic to see what you need.

Now you know your fitting, either click on the relevant link below, or read on to find out more about choosing the perfect bulb...

AREN'T THE SHAPES ALL THE SAME?

Actually no, they aren't. Although a lot about bulb shape does come down to the current size and shape to fit the place you need.

Each of the different shapes provides a slightly different spread and angle of light. Spotlights will cast a narrow, direct beam of light, whereas a golf bulb it's also worth considering how the fitting will look even when off, some lamps benefit from a more active design. For example, a golf bulb might work best in a multiple fittings, smaller bulbs such as a golf might work best in a

WHAT'S A LUMEN?

The unfamiliar lumen can be off putting when deciding to switch to LED, but as legislation changes and more bulbs become the only option, it's Back when we all had incandescent, the most important factor was the wattage. Higher wattage meant brighter light. The wattage chart below shows how many bulbs you would want when switching. For example, if you had a 60W LED for the same brightness...

So, that's not too hard, but let's not forget the watts completely. Watts are still important when it comes to energy efficiency. The lower the wattage, the less it costs to run. Instead of the brightness, cost to run is the key.

HINT: The lower the watts the cheaper it is to run.

DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT COLOUR TEMPERATURE?

Yes, you do. Colour temperature is another thing that is, for the most part, new to you. It's a way of measuring the light that a bulb gives off. It's measured in Kelvin (K) and is a way of describing the light that a bulb gives off. It's a way of describing the light that a bulb gives off.

A lot of people prefer the soft, artificial glow of incandescents. It's what we've used to and what we associate with feeling like home. A colour temperature of 2700K is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 3000K is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 4000K is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 5000K is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 6000K is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 7000K is a warm, soft, yellow light.

"Daylight" refers to a light that is similar to a sunny day outside, most people still find this a bit bright for in the home. Especially if you're a fan of cozy evenings in.

WHICH ROOM?

Now you've cracked the lumen, it's time to figure out what that means for you and how to use it. For example, a 2500L bulb is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 3000L is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 4000L is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 5000L is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 6000L is a warm, soft, yellow light. A 7000L is a warm, soft, yellow light.

Cool white bulbs are fab for functional rooms, such as the kitchen or bathroom, as the clear, bright light works better for task lighting and beauty.

If you're using multiple bulbs in one fitting, then we recommend a lumen rating of around 4000lm per bulb if you have just the one bulb in a hanging fixture, so for something a bit brighter, around the 3000lm mark should do it.
