Merleau-Ponty and a Phenomenology of PTSD Mary Catherine McDonald, 2019-04-29 Despite the fact that we have been studying posttraumatic stress disorder PTSD since at least the late 1800s it remains prevalent and in many cases intractable Merleau Ponty and a Phenomenology of PTSD Hidden Ghosts of Traumatic Memory begins with the assertion that we struggle to successfully treat PTSD because we simply do not understand it well enough Using the phenomenological approach of Maurice Merleau Ponty which focuses on the first person lived experience of the trauma victim Merleau Ponty and a Phenomenology of PTSD Hidden Ghosts of Traumatic Memory focuses on reframing our understanding of combat trauma in two fundamental ways First the concepts of embodiment and adaptation give us an understanding of the human being as fundamentally adaptive This allows us to view traumatic responses as adaptive as well When the roots of traumatic injury become reframed in this way combat related PTSD can be understood more accurately as a set of symptoms borne of strength and survival rather than weakness or disorder Second phenomenology reveals that a different ghost haunts those who are afflicted by trauma For the past century trauma studies across disciplines have all assumed that the ghost of a singular traumatic event haunts the sufferer While this is likely a part of the problem further study shows that those who suffer from trauma are also haunted by the specter of a world without meaning In other words phenomenology reveals that what is injured in trauma is not just the mind or the body but the entire worldview of the individual It is this aspect of the injury the shattering loss of one s blueprint of the world that is missing from other accounts of trauma Rather than aim to upend previous research in the fields of psychology and neuroscience Merleau Ponty and a Phenomenology of PTSD Hidden Ghosts of Traumatic Memory uses the phenomenological approach to bring them together and expand then It is in this expansion that we are able to consider what we may have previously missed which stands to improve our understanding and treatment of trauma in general
