Modeled after learner-centered teaching practice and based on USITT drafting standards, this book is structured around six carefully selected core projects. It introduces key terms and commands, tools, techniques, and procedures for drawing, modeling, rendering, drafting, and design presentation with Vectorworks. Each chapter begins with key commands and a set of learning objectives that will be explored. The design exercises and projects that follow invite the reader's active participation in the learning process. Along with step-by-step instructions, 240 illustrations, including student work samples and three insightful interviews with professional designers, this book also contains open-ended projects that encourage the reader to explore new ways of scenographic expression and creatively apply commands and techniques to solve example design problems. This textbook is for use in scenic design, drafting, model making, and rendering courses in university theatre and media programs and may be of interest to emerging professional scenic designers or scenographers for theatre, opera, and concert performances; production designers or art directors in film and television industries; themed exhibition designers; and theme park designers. Essential Vectorworks Skills

Cognitive Dynamics Eric Dietrich, Arthur B. Markman, 2014-03-05 Recent work in cognitive science much of it placed in opposition to a computational view of the mind has argued that the concept of representation and theories based on that concept are not sufficient to explain the details of cognitive processing These attacks on representation have focused on the importance of context sensitivity in cognitive processing on the range of individual differences in performance and on the relationship between minds and the bodies and environments in which they exist In each case models based on traditional assumptions about representation have been assumed to be too rigid to account for the effects of these factors on cognitive processing In place of a representational view of mind other formalisms and methodologies such as nonlinear differential equations or dynamical systems and situated robotics have been proposed as better explanatory tools for understanding cognition This book is based on the notion that while new tools and approaches for understanding cognition are valuable representational approaches do not need to be abandoned in the course of constructing new models and explanations Rather models that incorporate representation are quite compatible with the kinds of complex situations being modeled with the new methods This volume illustrates the power of this explicitly representational approach labeled cognitive dynamics in original essays by prominent researchers in cognitive science Each chapter explores some aspect of the dynamics of cognitive processing while still retaining representations as the centerpiece of the explanations of the key phenomena These chapters serve as an existence proof that representation is not incompatible with the dynamics of cognitive processing The book is divided into sections on foundational issues about the use of representation in cognitive science the dynamics of low level cognitive processes such as visual and auditory perception and simple lexical priming and the dynamics of higher cognitive processes including categorization analogy and decision making
