Geographic Names in the Coastal Areas of Alaska U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, 1943 United States Coast Pilot, 2003 The Canadian Field-naturalist, 1928 Mediterranean Island Landscapes Ioannis N. Vogiatzakis, Gloria Pungetti, A.M. Mannion, 2008-02-26 Mediterranean islands exhibit many similarities in their biotic ecological physical and environmental characteristics There are also many differences in terms of their human colonization and current anthropogenic pressures This book addresses in three sections these characteristics and examines the major environmental changes that the islands experienced during the Quaternary period The first section provides details on natural and cultural factors which have shaped island landscapes It describes the environmental and cultural changes of the Holocene and their effects on biota as well as on the current human pressures that are now threats to the sustainability of the island communities The second section focuses on the landscapes of the largest islands namely Sicily Sardinia Corsica Cyprus Crete Malta and the Balearics Each island chapter includes a special topic reflecting a particular characteristic of the island Part three presents strategies for action towards sustainability in Mediterranean islands and concludes with a comparison between the largest islands Despite several published books on Mediterranean ecosystems landscapes there is no existing book dealing with Mediterranean islands in a collective manner Students researchers and university lecturers in environmental science geography biology and ecology will find this work invaluable as a cross disciplinary text while planners and politicians will welcome the succinct summaries as background material to planning decisions Senate documents, 1887 House documents, 1887 Report of the Superintendent ... Beaglehole, 2017-07-05 Captain James Cook's first two voyages of exploration in 1768-71 and 1772-75 had drawn the modern map of the South Pacific Ocean and had opened the door on the discovery of Antarctica These expeditions were the subject of Volumes I and II of Dr J C Beaglehole's edition of Cook's Journals The third voyage on which Cook sailed in 1776 was directed to the Northern Hemisphere Its objective was the discovery of a Northern Passage by sea from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean the North west Passage sought since the 16th century which would have transformed the pattern of world trade The search was to take Cook into high latitudes where as in the Antarctic his skill in ice navigation was tested Sailing north from Tahiti in 1778 Cook made the first recorded discovery of the Hawaiian Islands On March 7 he sighted the Oregon coast in 44°N The remarkable voyage which he made northward along the Canadian and Alaskan coasts and through Bering Strait to his farthest north in 70° nearly disproved the existence of a navigable passage towards the Atlantic and produced charts of impressive accuracy Returning to Hawaii to refit Cook met his death in a clash with the natives as tragic as it seems unnecessary Dr Beaglehole discusses with sympathy and insight the tensions which led Cook by then a tired man into miscalculations alien to his own nature and habits The volume and vitality of the records both textual and graphic for this voyage surpass those even for Cook's second voyage The surgeons William Anderson and David Samwell both admirable observers left journals which are also here printed in full for the first time The documentation is completed as in the previous volumes by appendixes of documents and correspondence and by reproductions of original drawings and paintings mainly by John Webber the artist of the expedition In Dr Beaglehole's words no one can study attentively the records of Cook's third and last voyage
