Motivation and Punishment of Referees in Non-professional Football Michael Negri, 2010-11-01 Making people act the way oneself wishes is a challenging task in private and professional life Scientific literature proposes two basic approaches to make people comply with one's interests in this context One way is to foster the person's intrinsic motivation or to offer extrinsic rewards The other method is to punish misbehaviour by removing something pleasant or presenting something aversive to a person Regardless which approach is chosen the measures taken have to be oriented towards the person's characters and the existing circumstances to be effective This work answers the question of how problems resulting from a constellation in which someone acts on behalf of another person can be reduced or even solved This type of interaction between two parties is referred to as Principal Agent Theory in literature and represents the theoretical basis of the work As a practical example the case of football referees in the district of Guetersloh Germany is consulted In order to back up the findings from the Principal Agent Theory an empirical analysis delivers further solution mechanisms Basing on this case the author shows which motivational aspects influence human behaviour and provides practical recommendations to make people act in accordance with one's own interests In this regard the role of punishment is also evaluated and it is shown how this form of negative enforcement has to be set up to be effective The work therefore offers guidance and tools for people who have to manage others and helps to understand why people act the way they do My Life in Milwaukee Public Schools Michael Wenzel, 2005-03-22 This is a book talking about the changes that have taken place in the Milwaukee Public Schools over a period of fifty years It is seen from the eyes of a man who went from student to teacher in the school system and worked year round at various other MPS jobs As a student in the 1950s and 1960s the high quality of the school system was evident The changes started to be noticed in the 1970s as the author's teaching career was beginning By the year 2004 the time of retirement Milwaukee has become a failing school system mired in mediocrity The story of a young boy who had the opportunity to go to school in a fine school system becomes a teacher in the system and sees the changes that take place first hand The system that had been outstanding was being attacked on all sides for its failures This all takes place in one lifetime one career How bad has it become After reading these five decades of stories and events you decide Winning Youth Football with Defense Richard Braun, 2005 Winning High School Football Charles V. Hillsborough marked a moment of profound social change in the UK Applying relational sociology and drawing on original research and insider access this book considers how events and ruptures such as Hillsborough shape the dynamics of a social movement In this case supporters who have been deeply affected by the all seating legislation are now in a position to affect the future consumption of football This book shows how this was achieved and how a small core network of approximately 30 supporters networked with supporter groups across Europe now stand to impact and shape the consumption habits of a key leisure practice all over the world This is fascinating reading for any student researcher or policy maker with an interest in football sociology political science public policy or cultural and social history Football Injuries Kevin W.
