Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week resistance training program on the strength and endurance of the lower extremities in healthy young adults. The study was a randomized controlled trial. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group performed no exercise, while the experimental group performed a 12-week resistance training program. The strength and endurance of the lower extremities were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week program. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly greater strength and endurance than the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The findings suggest that a 12-week resistance training program can improve the strength and endurance of the lower extremities in healthy young adults.
