Higher Education as a Tool for Progress in South Africa D. D. Tewari, 2024-10-08 Education is a tool used to elevate citizens from poverty and unemployment and thus contributes to nation building and the promotion of a knowledge based society in the information age South Africa can take a cue from Asia and its rapid industrialization in the 1970s and its subsequent progressive education The book is an illustrious historical and lucid discussion and commentary on the changing nature of education in the South African Higher education sector in particular It covers a canvass of issues on higher education and the knowledge industry in the South African context and possible challenges that lie ahead The twin challenges of low enrollment and high dropout rates in South African universities especially at first year level are alarming and robbing the country of its economic potential It is the need of the hour to collaborate on an international level to spur knowledge creation and economic growth which South Africa so desperately needs The book is a welcome addition for policy makers and research scholars in higher education

South African Pressclips ,1988      Playing the Changes Darius Brubeck, Catherine Brubeck, 2024-07-23 Catherine and Darius Brubeck's 1983 move to South Africa launched them on a journey that helped transform jazz education. Blending biography with storytelling, the pair recount their time at the University of KwaZulu Natal where they built a pioneering academic program in jazz music and managed and organized bands, concerts and tours around the world. The Brubecks and the musicians faced innumerable obstacles from the intensification of apartheid and a lack of resources to the hardscrabble lives that forced even the most talented artists to the margins. Building a program grounded in multi-culturalism, Catherine and Darius encouraged black and white musicians to explore and expand the landscape of South African jazz together. Their story details the sometimes wily, sometimes hilarious problem-solving necessary to move the institution forward while offering insightful portraits of South African jazz players at work on stage and providing a soundtrack to the freedom struggle and its aftermath. Frank and richly detailed, Playing the Changes provides insiders' accounts of how jazz intertwined with struggle and both expressed and resisted the bitter unfairness of apartheid-era South Africa.      Just a Larger Family Mary F. Williamson, Tom Sharp, 2011-05-15 The Second World War had been under way for a year when Marie and John Williamson welcomed two English brothers to join them and their two children in their small house in north Toronto for the duration of the conflict. Marie wrote over 150 letters to the boys' mother, Margaret Sharp, imagining that she could make Margaret feel she was still with her children. She shepherded the boys through education decisions and illnesses, eased them into a strange new life and rejoiced when they embraced unfamiliar winter sports. The letters brim with detail about family holidays, the financial implications of an extended family, their involvement in their church and the games and activities that kept them occupied. Marie's letters reflect the lives and concerns of a particular family in Toronto but they also reveal a portrait of what was then Canada's second largest city during wartime. The introduction is by Mary F. Williamson, Marie's daughter and Tom Sharp, Margaret's youngest son. The book features a foreword by Jonathan Vance that puts the letters in historical context.      Educational Times ,1887      The Lancet London ,1870      International Encyclopedia of Education ,2009-04-17 The field of education has experienced extraordinary technological, societal and institutional change in recent years, making it one of the most fascinating yet complex fields of study in social science. Doctors in a Divided Society Mignonne Breier, Angelique Wildschut, 2006 Many of the goals of South Africa's new democracy depend on the production of professionals who have not only the knowledge and skills to make our country globally competitive but also a commitment to working and living here Despite numerous reforms the South African health system ten years into democracy remains divided first world private care that ranks with middle income countries internationally at the one end and at the other extreme in the rural public sector in particular conditions that are superior only to the poorest of African countries Much work has been done to change medical school curricula in line with the primary health care focus of government policy and international trends towards problem based learning The student profile in medical schools is now not only more representative of the demographics of South Africa but also reveals a significant increase in female students Whether these students will stay in the country after graduating and serve where they are needed most remains to be seen Publisher's website
