United Kingdom the most centralised countries in the OECD local government powers have increased with substantial economic benefits Within the European Union the principle of subsidiarity has enshrined the idea of devolution New member states particularly in central and eastern Europe have significantly created new and self sufficient local and regional governments However this process has been complicated Devolution is not a panacea in its own right and need not lead to economic growth While it can encourage savings through collaboration it can also lead to confused lines of authority and can complicate policy formation and implantation Devolution can strain local budgets forcing local governments to rely on their own sources of finance rather than central government transfers Suburbanisation rural depopulation the growth of some regions and the decline of others have raised new problems particularly related to inter governmental cooperation among local governments and different levels of government In many cases an increased number of governments has increased administrative costs
