Demy,Gary P. Stewart, Genetics is currently at the forefront of scientific research and discussed almost daily in the media The possibilities for good and bad applications of this research are enormous and cannot be properly advanced without a Christian response This cutting edge book presents the legal scientific medical and theological perspectives of genetic engineering based on a Christian worldview Try to Love the Questions Lara Schwartz,2024-04-02 Among the most common challenges from faculty in higher education today is how to navigate our politically charged culture Most books on campus discussion address rights e g free speech or the failures of one side to engage with opposing arguments and in reasonable debate e g due to political silos and social bubbles or extreme polarization but there is no real guidance that teaches students and instructors how to actually engage in productive civil dialogue and inquiry Try to Love the Questions is a guide to civil discourse that offers a framework for understanding and practicing dialogue across difference in and out of the classroom It explores the challenges facing college students as they prepare to listen speak and learn in a college community It maps a path through the intersection of free speech and inclusion viewing free inquiry and expression as engines of social progress and scholarship while demonstrating how inclusive respectful communication is a skill not a limitation on freedom Schwartz articulates a vision for civil discourse in the classroom on campus and beyond that centers on productive conversations and a mindset of inquiry that embraces uncertainty and explores the beauty of questions which form the core of the college experience Schwartz develops 5 key ideas to serve this purpose which are 1 learning to love questions while seeking answers with integrity 2 understanding the rules and norms that apply to conversations 3 listening and reading with a mindset of generosity and grace 4 communicating to be understood and 5 engaging in self reflection This book is structured as a handbook for helping students teachers and scholars to understand that their role in college is to actively engage both appealing and not so appealing ideas to learn how to love the questions raised by other students and faculty and to participate in an exchange that is respectful and productive Each chapter includes discussion questions and writing exercises Cinema and Secularism Mark Cauchi,2023-12-14 Cinema and Secularism is the first collection to make the relationship between cinema and secularism thematic utilizing a number of different methodological approaches to examine their identification and differentiation across film theory film aesthetics film history and throughout global cinema The emergence of moving images and the history of cinema historically coincide with the emergence of secularism as a concept and discourse More than historically coinciding however cinema and secularism would seem to have and many contemporary theorists and critics seem to assume a more intrinsic almost ontological connection to each other While early film theorists and critics explicitly addressed questions about secularism religion and cinema once the study of film was professionalized and secularized in the Western academy in both film studies and religious studies explicit and critical attention to the relationship between cinema and secularism rapidly declined Indeed if one canvases film scholarship today one will find barely any works dedicated to thinking critically about the relationship between cinema and secularism Extending the recent secular turn in the humanities and social sciences Cinema and Secularism provokes critical reflection on its titular concepts Making contributions to theory philosophy criticism and history the chapters in this pioneering volume collectively interrogate the assumption that cinema is secular how secularism is conceived and related to cinema differently in different film cultures and whether the world is disenchanted or enchanted in cinema Coming from intellectually diverse backgrounds in film studies religious studies and philosophy the interdisciplinary contributors to this book cover films and traditions of thought from America Europe Africa the Middle East South Asia and East Asia In these ways Cinema and Secularism opens new areas of inquiry in the study of film and contributes to the ongoing interrogation of secularism more broadly

Wh-movement and the Theory of Feature-checking Andrew Simpson, 2000-01-01 Wh movement and the theory of feature checking argues that cross linguistic variation in wh constructions reduces to the availability of different lexical instantiations of a wh C0 both across languages and within a single language and the way in which such lexical elements are syntactically identified either via movement or base generation Evidence from a wide range of patterns including wh expletive questions leads to the conclusion that wh feature checking may sometimes be effected non locally and at a distance long distance wh agreement and that movement in general takes place for two related but discrete reasons both to identify and activate an underspecified licensing head and in order for an element to occur in the checking domain projected by its relevant licensing head

Developing and generalizing the proposals beyond wh phenomena the study also goes on to argue for a Minimalist model of syntax in which feature dependencies are in fact all licensed in the overt syntax and where there is no need for any further level of LF
