Cassian's Conferences Christopher J. Kelly, 2016-04-08 This book explores Cassian's use of scripture in the Conferences especially its biblical models to convey his understanding of the desert ideal to the monastic communities of Gaul Cassian intended the scriptures and implicitly the Conferences to be the voices of authority and orthodoxy in the Gallic environment He interprets familiar biblical characters in unfamiliar ways that exemplify his ideal By imitating their actions the monk enters a seamless lineage of authority stretching back to Abraham This book demonstrates how the scriptures functioned as a dynamic force in the lives of Christian monks in the fourth and fifth centuries emphasizes the importance of Cassian in the development of the western monastic tradition and offers an alternative to the sometimes problematic descriptions of patristic exegesis as allegory or typology Cassian has been described as little more than a provider of information about Egyptian monasticism but a careful reading of his work reveals a sophisticated agenda to define and institutionalize orthodox monasticism in the Latin West

The Significance of Exemplars for the Interpretation of the Letter of James Robert J. Foster, 2014-09-23 What was the function of the four characters from Jewish history and tradition in the Letter of James Robert J Foster analyses James use of these characters and argues that despite each of them being tested to the extreme they all remained wholly committed to God

Continuities and Discontinuities in Development Robert N. Emde, Robert J. Harmon, 2012-12-06 Continuities and Discontinuities in Development was the theme for the Second Biennial DPRG Retreat a three day meeting held at Estes Park Colorado in June 1982 The meeting was sponsored by the Developmental Psychobiology Research Group DPRG of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Colorado School of Medicine The DPRG is a group of individuals conducting research in many areas of development who meet on a regular basis to present and discuss their work and receive feedback and encouragement In 1974 this group was awarded an endowment fund by the Grant Foundation the aims of which were to facilitate the research of young investigators to encourage new research and to provide seed money for collaborative ventures Much of the work reported in this volume and in the earlier volume from the First DPRG Retreat is the result of that support In addition to the work of the members of the DPRG a select group of guests was invited to participate in the meeting and contribute to this volume The chapters by William Greenough Jerome Kagan and Michael Rutter result from the participation of these scholars at the retreat We would like to acknowledge the support of a number of individuals who have been instrumental in supporting the DPRG as a whole as well as those who contributed directly to the Second Biennial Retreat and to the volume Model-Based Reasoning in Science, Technology, and Medicine Lorenzo Magnani, Ping Li, 2007-06-30 The volume is based on papers presented at the international conference on Model Based Reasoning in Science and Medicine held in China in 2006 The presentations explore how scientific thinking uses models and explanatory reasoning to produce creative changes in theories and concepts The contributions to the book are written by researchers active in the area of creative reasoning in science and technology They include the subject area s most recent results and achievements

The Making of Human Concepts Denis Mareschal, Paul C. Quinn, S. E. G. Lea, 2010 Human adults appear different from other animals in their ability to form abstract mental representations that go beyond perceptual similarity In short they can conceptualize the world This apparent uniqueness leads to an immediate puzzle WHEN and HOW does this abstract system come into being To answer this question we need to explore the origins of adult concepts both developmentally and phylogenetically When does the developing child acquire the ability to use abstract concepts Does the transition occur around 2 years with the onset of symbolic representation and language Or is it independent of the emergence of language When in evolutionary history did an abstract representational system emerge Is there something unique about the human brain How would a computational system operating on the basis of perceptual associations develop into a system operating on the basis of abstract relations Is this ability present in other species but masked by their inability to verbalise abstractions Perhaps the very notion of concepts is empty and should be done away with altogether This book tackles the age old puzzle of what might be unique about human concepts Intuitively we have a sense that our thoughts are somehow different from those of animals and young children such as infants Yet if true this raises the question of where and how this uniqueness arises What are the factors that have played out during the life course of the individual and over the evolution of humans that have contributed to the emergence of this apparently unique ability This volume brings together a collection of world specialists who have grappled with these questions from different perspectives to try to resolve the issue It includes contributions from leading psychologists neuroscientists child and infant specialists and animal cognition specialists Taken together this story leads to the idea that there is no unique ingredient in the emergence of human concepts but rather a powerful and potentially unique mix of biological abilities and personal and social history that has led to where the human mind now stands A must read for students and researchers in the cognitive sciences
