Abe and Bev both look in a plane mirror directly in front of Abe (left, top view). Abe can see himself while Bev cannot see herself—but can Abe see Bev, and can Bev see Abe? To find the answer we construct their artificial locations “through” the mirror, the same distance behind as Abe and Bev are in front (right, top view). If straight-line connections intersect the mirror, as at point C, then each sees the other. The mouse, for example, cannot see or be seen by Abe and Bev.

Here we have eight students in front of a small plane mirror. Their positions are shown in the diagram below. Make appropriate straight-line constructions to answer the following:

Who can Abe see?	Eva, Flo, Guy, Han	Who can Abe not see?	Abe—Don
Who can Bev see?	Don—Han	Who can Bev not see?	Abe—Cis
Who can Cis see?	Cis—Han	Who can Cis not see?	Abe, Bev
Who can Don see?	Bev—Guy	Who can Don not see?	Abe, Han
Who can Eva see?	Abe—Flo	Who can Eva not see?	Guy, Han
Who can Flo see?	Abe—Eva	Who can Flo not see?	Flo, Guy, Han
Who can Guy see?	Abe—Don	Who can Guy not see?	Eva—Han
Who can Han see?	Abe, Bev, Cis	Who can Han not see?	Don—Han

Social Theory and Nursing Martin Lipscomb,2016-12-08 Despite noteworthy exceptions nursing s literature largely disregards the ways in which social and sociological theory permeates guides and shapes research education and practice Likewise social theory s ability to position nursing within wider structures of healthcare and educational provision is similarly and puzzlingly downplayed The questions nurses ask and the problems they face cannot however adequately be addressed without engaging with social and sociological theory and to progress this engagement contributors to this book explore how social theories are used by and might apply to nursing and nursing practice The book draws on a wide range of perspectives philosophical theoretical empirical and political to offer a robust and wide ranging critique and analysis Social Theory and Nursing is essential reading for nursing researchers academics and educators as well as scholars and researchers in medical sociology medicine and allied health

Theoretical Nursing Afaf Ibrahim Meleis,2011 An additional assumption was that the processes for theory development were new to nursing and hence nurses in graduate programs learned strategies for advancing knowledge from other disciplines This assumption was debunked with the knowledge that nurses were always engaged in knowledge development driven by their experiences in clinical practice Because of these assumptions most of the early writing about theory development was about outlining strategies that should be used rather than strategies that have already been used in the discipline to develop theories Theorists themselves did not uncover or adequately discuss ways by which they developed their theories therefore the tendency was to describe processes that were based on theories developed in other disciplines mainly the physical and social sciences And an implicit assumption was made that there should be a single strategy for theory development some claiming to begin the process from practice and others believing it should be driven by research Provided by publisher
