GATTACA

Unit 3.1.1

Summary

The film Gattaca is set in a future where genetic engineering is used to create "perfect" humans. Vincent, a man with a "flawed" genome, is born to a family that has opted for genetic engineering. His parents, who are both "perfect" humans, decide to have another child because they want a child who is "perfect" like them. Vincent's genome is flawed because he has a small amount of genetic material from his mother's side, which is not "perfect". This makes him a "second-class" citizen in a society where "perfect" humans are the only ones who can work in high-paying jobs or travel. Vincent is born with a heart defect and is told that he will never be able to do anything. However, he is determined to prove himself and eventually becomes a successful swimmer and a high-ranking official in the Gattaca Corporation. The film explores themes of genetic engineering, discrimination, and the power of the human spirit.
