Geog Paper Memo June 2014 For Johannesburg

Zhongwei Zhao, Adrian C. Hayes

Geog Paper Memo June 2014 For Johannesburg:

Assembling Bus Rapid Transit in the Global South Malve Jacobsen, 2020-12-13 This book explores the mobile ethnography of Dar es Salaam where consultants and politicians have planned and implemented a bus rapid transit BRT system for two decades. It analyses the dual processes of assembling BRT in the Tanzanian metropolis and establishing BRT as a policy model of and for the Global South. The book elucidates how policy models are constructed and circulated around the globe and depicts the processes by which they are translated between and materialise within specific contexts. It presents the case of BRT to demonstrate how technocrats shape these processes through persuasive work aimed at disseminating and stabilising this transport model and how local actors influence its adaptation in Dar es Salaam. The book adopts a double mobility approach to show how this ethnography follows travelling consultants circulating policies and moving buses to explore the fluidity of the BRT model. Linking key debates in policy mobility studies and Science and Technology Studies enriched with postcolonial perspectives and geographies of transport and infrastructure, it offers new insights into the technopolitics of planning and implementing infrastructure systems. This book will appeal to academics and students of human geography, transport studies, science and technology studies, and African and development studies interested in the technopolitics of transport planning. Routledge Handbook of Asian Demography Zhongwei Zhao, Adrian C.

Hayes, 2017-12-14 Home to close to 60 per cent of the world's population, Asia is the largest and by far the most populous continent. It is also extremely diverse physically and culturally. Asian countries and regions have their own distinctive histories, cultural traditions, religious beliefs, and political systems, and they have often pursued different routes to development. Asian populations also present a striking array of demographic characteristics and stages of demographic transition. This handbook is the first to provide a comprehensive study of population change across the whole of Asia. Comprising 28 chapters by more than 40 international experts, this handbook examines demographic transitions on the continent, their considerable variations, their causes and consequences, and their relationships with a wide range of social, economic, political, and cultural processes. Major topics covered include population studies and sources of demographic data, historical demography, family planning and fertility decline, sex preferences, mortality changes, causes of death, HIV/AIDS, population distribution and migration, urbanization, marriage and family, human capital and labour force, population ageing, demographic dividends, political demography, population and environment, and Asia's demographic future. This handbook provides an authoritative and comprehensive reference for researchers, policymakers, academics, students, and anyone who is interested in population change in Asia and the world. Integrating Food into Urban Planning Yves Cabannes, Cecilia Marocchino, 2018-11-22 The integration of food into urban planning is a crucial and emerging topic. Urban planners, alongside the local and regional authorities that have traditionally been less engaged in food-related issues, are now asked to take a central and active part in understanding how food is produced, processed, packaged, transported, marketed, consumed, and disposed.

of and recycled in our cities While there is a growing body of literature on the topic the issue of planning cities in such a way they will increase food security and nutrition not only for the affluent sections of society but primarily for the poor is much less discussed and much less informed by practices This volume a collaboration between the Bartlett Development Planning Unit at UCL and the Food Agricultural Organisation aims to fill this gap by putting more than 20 city based experiences in perspective including studies from Toronto New York City Portland and Providence in North America Milan in Europe and Cape Town in Africa Belo Horizonte and Lima in South America and in Asia Bangkok and Tokyo By studying and comparing cities of different sizes from both the Global North and South in developed and developing regions the contributors collectively argue for the importance and circulation of global knowledge rooted in local food planning practices programmes and policies
