Goodbye Normal Gene Confronting The Genetic Revolution:

The Ethics of Inheritable Genetic Modification John Rasko, Gabrielle O'Sullivan, Rachel Ankeny, 2006-01-26 Is inheritable genetic modification the new dividing line in gene therapy The editors of this searching investigation representing clinical medicine public health and biomedical ethics have established a distinguished team of scientists and scholars to address the issues from the perspectives of biological and social science law and ethics including an intriguing Foreword from Peter Singer Their purpose is to consider how society might deal with the ethical concerns raised by inheritable genetic modification and to re examine prevailing views about whether these procedures will ever be ethically and socially justifiable The book also provides background to define the field and discusses the biological and technological potential for inheritable genetic modification its limitations and its connection with gene therapy cloning and other reproductive interventions For scientists bioethicists clinicians counsellors and public commentators this is an essential contribution to one of the critical debates in current genetics

The New Genetics and The Public's Health Robin Bunton, Alan Petersen, 2002-09-11 The rapid advancement of genetic science fuelled by the Human Genome Project and other related initiatives promises a new kind of public health practice based on the pre detection of disease according to calculations of genetic risk This book by two well known sociologists explores the implications of the new genetics for public health as a body of knowledge and a domain of practice assesses the impact of new genetic information and technologies on conceptions of health illness embodiment self and citizenship critically examines the complex discourses surrounding human genetics and public health The New Genetics and The Public's Health addresses the emerging social and political consequences of the new genetics and provides a stimulating critique of current research and practice in public health
