as many as 40 000 women and girls will be sex trafficked Drawing on extensive fieldwork in Brazil as well as interviews with sex workers policymakers missionaries and activists in Russia Qatar Japan the UK and South Africa Gregory Mitchell shows that despite baseless statistical claims to the contrary sex trafficking never increases as a result of these global mega events but police violence against sex workers always does While advocates have long decried this myth Mitchell follows the discourse across host countries to ask why this panic so easily embeds during these mega events What fears animate it Who profits He charts the move of sex trafficking into the realm of the spectacular street protests awareness raising campaigns telenovelas social media and celebrity spokespeople where it then spreads across borders This trend is dangerous because these events happen in moments of nationalist fervor during which fears of foreigners and migrants are heightened and easily exploited to frightening ends
