

Applications of Area, Length and Distance

1. A sector of a circle is a region of the circle bounded by a central angle and the corresponding arc.

As you have seen, the area of a sector depends on the central angle bounding the sector and the radius of the circle. These have previously determined a function that could be used to predict the arc length of a circular arc with a given (central angle) value or diameter of rotation. This function was characterized by arc length of a circle of radius r in radians.

$$\text{Arc Length} = \frac{r}{180} (\text{degrees of rotation})$$

Another way to find arc length is to think about, just as, other relationships. As you collected data for your tables in this previous activity, you discovered that arc length is directly a function of the circle's circumference and can be expressed in terms of π . This relationship can be summarized proportionally as circle of any given radius, r , is to π .

$$\frac{\text{Arc Length}}{\pi r} = \frac{\text{Degrees of Rotation}}{360}$$

Similarly, you discovered a function that could be used to predict the area swept by a central angle in a circle of radius r in radians.

$$\text{Area Swept by Angle of Rotation} = \frac{r^2}{2} (\text{degrees of rotation})$$

As you collected data for your tables in this previous activity, you discovered that, the arc length, area of rotation (or area swept) is proportional to the circle's circumference and can be expressed in terms of π . This relationship is summarized proportionally as circle of any given radius, r , is to π .

$$\frac{\text{Area Swept}}{\pi r^2} = \frac{\text{Degrees of Rotation}}{360}$$

Example: (Based on previous activity and necessary.)

1. If the radius of a circle is 10 units and the angle is 60 degrees, find the arc length and area of the sector.
