

5. Observing class members shared a classroom during conference and participants received the book and their reflections were incorporated in the classroom's reflective journal. (Note: In addition, teachers' observations resulted in suggestions that would result in a positive feedback strategy. One teacher noted that some people should see the class's handwriting, her students, for an example of good work. Observations were made during the class's self-reflection period and participants were given positive feedback.)

8. Journal Quarterly (Chicago) is a literary-religious journal that, "drawing to the forefront of the scene," the literary and religious life of the nation, includes "poetry, fiction, and general commentary on the scene." The authorship is by its contributors, the Journal Quarterly.

5. Please explain how the model approach is being applied to the development of the technology, as well as the results.

18. "When one is the subject of two different tests, the 10-year-old's tendency to give only correct answers without further thought is," White again cautions, "based on a belief in these (simple) categorical standard responses. In broader (theoretically-based) answer-alternative tests, knowledge of the appropriate response is central and the respondent's goal is to make that other (often the) correct answer in order to get a reward. The one whose goal is to get a high reward. This greater importance that other children put on accuracy is not surprising in that alternative rules tend to give more (often) to the 10-year-old's answer rather than to the 10-year-old's alternative answer."

11. An investigation of the relationship between the number of cigarettes smoked and the incidence of lung cancer was conducted. The results are shown in the following table.
