

A People's History of the United States Howard Zinn

Chapter 1: "Columbus, the Indians, and Human Progress"

1. According to Zinn, what was Columbus's motivation for his discovery of the United States?

Zinn's motivation was to depict history from the viewpoint of the oppressed people rather than the viewpoint of politicians or historians.

2. According to Zinn, what is Columbus's greatest contribution to history?

Columbus's greatest contribution was to bring to the attention of the world the existence of the Americas, which had been inhabited by millions of people for thousands of years.

3. What is Zinn's main criticism of Columbus's voyage to the Americas?

Zinn states that Columbus's voyage was motivated by greed and a desire for power, and that it resulted in the destruction of the native population and the establishment of a racist society.

4. What impact did Columbus's voyage have on the Americas?

Zinn states that Columbus's voyage led to the destruction of the native population and the establishment of a racist society, which has had a lasting impact on the Americas.

5. Identify one major criticism of Zinn's argument that Columbus is responsible for the destruction of the native population.

One major criticism of Zinn's argument is that it is based on a biased and incomplete view of the evidence. Zinn's argument is based on the idea that Columbus was a greedy and power-hungry man who was motivated by a desire for wealth and power. However, there is evidence to suggest that Columbus was a man of great vision and courage who was motivated by a desire to discover new lands and to bring the Americas to the attention of the world.
