Hendershot,Marjorie C. Horn,William D. Mosher,1988 The 1982 statistics on the use of family planning and infertility services presented in this report are preliminary results from Cycle III of the National Survey of Family Growth NSFG conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics Data were collected through personal interviews with a multistage area probability sample of 7969 women aged 15-44. A detailed series of questions was asked to obtain relatively complete estimates of the extent and type of family planning services received. Statistics on family planning services are limited to women who were able to conceive 3 years before the interview date. Overall, 79% of currently married nonsterile women reported using some type of family planning service during the previous 3 years. There were no statistically significant differences between white (79%), black (75%), or Hispanic (77%) wives or between the 2 income groups. The 1982 survey questions were more comprehensive than those of earlier cycles of the survey. The annual rate of visits for family planning services in 1982 was 1077 visits/1000 women. Teenagers had the highest annual visit rate (1581/1000) of any age group for all sources of family planning services combined. Visit rates declined sharply with age from 1447 at ages 15-24 to 479 at ages 35-44. Similar declines with age also were found in the visit rates for white and black women separately. Nevertheless, the annual visit rate for black women (1334/1000) was significantly higher than that for white women (1033). The highest overall visit rate was for black women 15-19 years of age (1867/1000). Nearly 2/3 of all family planning visits were to private medical sources. Teenagers of all races had higher family planning service visit rates to clinics than to private medical sources, as did black women age 15-24. White women age 20 and older had higher visit rates to private medical services than to clinics. Never married women had higher visit rates to clinics than currently or formerly married women. Data were also collected in 1982 on use of medical services for infertility by women who had difficulty in conceiving or carrying a pregnancy to term. About 1 million ever married women had 1 or more infertility visits in the 12 months before the interview. During the 3 years before interview, about 1.9 million women had infertility visits. For all ever married women as well as for white and black women separately, infertility services were more likely to be secured from private medical sources than from clinics. The survey design, reliability of the estimates, and the terms used are explained in the technical notes. PC Mag, 1996-12-03. The use of external storage and the benefits of virtualization became a topic of discussion in the IBM i area during the last several years. The question tends to be what are the advantages of the use of external storage that is attached to an IBM i environment as opposed to the use of internal storage The use of IBM PowerVM virtualization technology to virtualize Power server processors and memory also became common in IBM i environments However virtualized access to external storage and network resources by using a VIO server is still not widely used This IBM Redbooks publication gives a broad overview of the IBM Storwize family products and their features and functions It describes the setup that is required on the storage side and describes and positions the different options for attaching IBM Storwize family products to an IBM i environment Basic setup and configuration of a VIO server specifically for the needs of an IBM i environment is also described In addition different configuration options for a combined setup of IBM PowerHA SystemMirror for i and the Storwize family products are described and positioned against each other Detailed examples are provided for the setup process that is required for these environments The information that is provided in this book is useful for clients IBM Business Partners and IBM service professionals who need to understand how to install and configure their IBM i environment with attachment to the Storwize family products
