Nuclear Science Abstracts, 1974. Niels Bohr's Times, 1991-10-17. Niel Bohr's life spans times of revolutionary change in science and in its impact on society. Along with Einstein, Bohr can be considered as this century's major driving force behind the new mathematical and philosophical descriptions of the atom, the nucleus and all that resulted from them. Abraham Pais, the acclaimed biographer of Einstein, traces Bohr's progress from his well-to-do origins in late nineteenth century Denmark to his central position in the world political scene particularly because of the development of nuclear weapons during the Second World War Bohr was one of the great enabling figures in modern science not only because of his direct involvement in the application of quantum theory to our understanding of the structure of the atom but also because he gathered around him in Copenhagen most of the brightest young minds of the period Figures like Pauli Dirac and Heisenberg all required Bohr's imprimatur to varying degrees before they considered their work ready for widespread consumption He had a complex relationship with Einstein both in terms of their fundamental disagreements and their profound though distant mutual respect He owed an important debt to his mentor Rutherford a man who came to serve in many ways as his role model Pais describes the state of physics before Bohr and considers his legacy both theoretical and practical But more than this he captures the essence of Bohr the intensely private family man who despite appalling personal tragedy became one of the best loved cultural figures of recent times
