Connections between Steel and Concrete Rolf Eligehausen, Werner Fuchs, Philipp Grosser, Giovacchino

Genesio, 2012-02-27 Anchorage by fasteners and composite structures of steel and concrete have seen dramatic progress in research technology and application over the past decades. The understanding of the fundamental principles underlying both disciplines has significantly improved. Concurrently there has been rapid growth in the development of sophisticated new products and the establishment of international directives and codes to ensure their safe and economical use in a wide range of engineered structures. Although they deal with very similar problems, the two disciplines have developed independently from each other. To optimize the use of composite structures and fastenings to concrete, however, it is necessary to have knowledge of both the local behavior of the fastening system and the global behavior of the structure. It became apparent that a forum offering the opportunity to expand and to exchange experience in the field of connecting steel and concrete would benefit all involved. Furthermore, this forum would aid in the rapid dissemination of new ideas, technologies, and solutions, as well as explore new areas of research. This book forms the Proceedings of the 2nd Symposium on Connections between Steel and Concrete. As the 1st Symposium in 2001, it brought together leading experts from all facets of the research, design, construction, and anchor manufacturing community from around the world. Their lectures covered the topics: test methods, behavior, and design; dynamic loading; shock; earthquake; fatigue; durability; exceptional applications; strengthening; and structures related topics. In total, 129 papers are gathered in these 2 volumes.
