Jeffrey L. Carrier,2023-03-29 On a warm July day in 1979 a sixteen year old named Jeffrey Carrier visited the old Donnelly Cemetery in Johnson County Tennessee a rural county in the northeast corner of the state He was there for more than an hour wandering from stone to stone writing down every name date and epitaph It was the beginning of a project that took him six years to complete and when it was done he had visited 282 cemeteries in the county and recorded more than 10 000 names The information was published in 1985 and has been aiding genealogists and historians ever since The original edition was a limited printing and most of those copies have fallen apart and are no longer extant Except for another limited printing in 2012 the book has mostly been unavailable for use This professionally printed edition changes that as the information is now available to everyone everywhere who can trace their family roots back to Johnson County Tennessee or who has an interest in cemeteries Calamity

Joann Green Byrd,2014-01-01 June 14 1903 was a typical hot Sunday in Heppner a small farm town in northeastern Oregon People went to church ate dinner and relaxed with family and friends But late that afternoon calamity struck when a violent thunderstorm brought heavy rain and hail to the mountains and bare hills south of town When the fierce downpour reached Heppner people gathered their children and hurried inside Most everyone closed their doors and windows against the racket The thunder and pounding hail masked the sound of something they likely could not have imagined a roaring two story wall of water raging toward town Within an hour one of every five people in the prosperous town of 1 300 would lose their lives as the floodwaters pulled apart and carried away nearly everything in their path The center of town was devastated Enormous drifts of debris tangled around bodies snaked down the valley The telegraph was down the railroads were out and the mayor was in Portland Stunned survivors bent immediately to the dreadful tasks of searching for loved ones and carrying bodies to a makeshift morgue in the bank By the next afternoon thousands of individuals and communities had rushed to the town s aid an outpouring of generosity that enabled the self reliant citizens of Heppner to undertake the town s recovery In Calamity Joann Green Byrd a native of eastern Oregon
