

A GUIDE TO Baseball in April

Gary Soto

He had never been so embarrassed. He would have to ask his parents to move the family out of town.

THE BOOK AT A GLANCE

Baseball in April is a collection of eleven short stories about the everyday experiences of Mexican American young people.

Settings: contemporary working-class neighborhoods in cities of California's Central Valley.

Of Special Note: Spanish words and phrases used in the short stories are listed in alphabetical order at the end of the book.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS

These stories are easy to read; each one quickly develops a plot and theme that will appeal to students. The main character of each story is a Mexican American youngster with family, friends, and feelings that students will immediately recognize as much like their own. It's clear that Soto likes kids and understands what they care about.

BACKGROUND

Mexican Americans. Spain conquered the Aztec Indian Empire of Mexico in 1519. The ancestors of some Mexican Americans settled in what is now the southwestern United States before any other group except American Indians. By the end of the 16th century, New Spain, as Mexico was then called, began to colonize the territory that is now the states of Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas.

In the more recent past, thousands of Mexicans immigrated to the United States during the Mexican Revolution of 1911–1920. Since the Second World War, most Mexican immigrants to the United States have settled in California and Texas. In the 1960s young Mexican Americans began to identify themselves as Chicanos, a slang word once used to refer to a poor Mexican or Mexican American. Calling themselves Chicanos reflects the pride of Mexican Americans in La Raza, the people of Spanish-Mexican-Indian heritage.

THE STORIES

“BROKEN CHAIN”

Protagonist: Alfonso, a seventh-grader who wants to look grown-up.

MAIN CHARACTERS

Ernie, Alfonso's brother, two years older than Alfonso.

Sandra, seventh-grader with ponytails who likes Alfonso just as he is.

Conflict: Alfonso's internal conflict between insecurity and confidence.

Theme: Looking grown-up or handsomer than average is not as important—or as attractive to a seventh-grade girl—as behaving in a grown-up way.

PLOT

Alfonso hates the way he looks. His family can't afford braces for teeth, so he tries unsuccessfully for hours to straighten them himself by pushing them with his thumbs. After he gives up and decides to clean his bike, a depressed Ernie tells Alfonso that two girls who were supposed to meet him and his friend Frostie never appeared. Later in the day a plot complication develops when Alfonso rescues a little boy caught on the barbed-wire fence at his old elementary school. He is delighted when the boy's sister, Sandra, agrees to go biking with him. He asks Ernie if he can borrow Ernie's bike for Sandra to ride; Ernie refuses. After school on Monday while Alfonso cleans his bike, the chain breaks. Now Alfonso needs two bikes if he wants to go riding with Sandra. Ernie, on his way to catch frogs, again refuses to loan Alfonso his bike. At the climax of the story, Ernie finally lends his bike to Alfonso. Ernie's bike is dirty, but Alfonso, riding with Sandra perched on the crossbar, suddenly realizes that outward appearances are not important.
