11. At your next science, write down Lamarck's theory of acquired characteristics.

Lamarck's theory of acquired characteristics is the idea that an organism's traits can change during its lifetime. This is because the organism's environment can change, and the organism's traits can change to adapt to the new environment.

12. At your next science, write down Darwin's theory of natural selection.

Darwin's theory of natural selection is the idea that organisms with traits that are better suited to their environment will survive and reproduce, while those with traits that are less suited will die. This is because the environment can change, and organisms with traits that are better suited to the new environment will survive and reproduce.

Phenotype & Genotype

- Phenotype is the observable physical characteristics of an organism.
- Genotype is the genetic makeup of an organism.
- Phenotype is determined by both genotype and environment.
- Genotype is determined by the DNA sequence.
