

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be solved. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

2. The second step is to gather relevant information and resources. This may involve researching the problem, consulting with experts, or collecting data.

3. The third step is to develop a plan or strategy to solve the problem. This involves breaking down the problem into smaller, manageable parts and determining the best approach to tackle each part.

4. The fourth step is to implement the plan. This involves carrying out the steps of the strategy and monitoring progress to ensure that the problem is being solved effectively.

5. The fifth step is to evaluate the results. This involves comparing the outcome of the solution to the original problem and determining whether the solution is satisfactory.

6. The sixth step is to reflect on the process. This involves thinking about what worked well, what didn't, and how the process could be improved for future problems.
