

Journal of Geodesy

Continuation of Bulletin Géodésique and manuscripta geodaetica

Editorial board Aims & scope Journal updates

The Journal of Geodesy is an international journal concerned with the study of scientific problems of geodesy and related interdisciplinary sciences. It presents peer-reviewed papers on theoretical or modeling studies, and on results of experiments and interpretations. In addition to original research papers, the journal includes commissioned review papers on topical subjects, occasional short notes on topics with broad significance to the readership, and special issues arising from e. g. scientific symposia or workshops. The journal covers the whole range of geodetic science and reports on theoretical and applied studies in research areas such as positioning; reference frame; geodetic networks; modeling and quality control; space geodesy; remote sensing; gravity fields, and geodynamics. — show all

Disseminating Behavioral Research Annette K.

Griffith, Tyler C. Ré, 2023-12-09 Dissemination is a key component of the research process While several fields have developed resources dedicated to training and supporting their scientists and practitioners as they are encouraged to disseminate within their fields and to the larger public audience there has been a lack of formal guidance for dissemination within the behavioral sciences Disseminating Behavioral Science aims to fill that gap providing guidance across modalities for topics ranging from the peer review process to conference presentation to nontraditional avenues for dissemination The contents of this edited text divided across six sections serves as a roadmap for students junior researchers and senior scholars The first section includes types of academic scholarship types of dissemination and strategies to ensure ethical dissemination The second reviews traditional publication preparation including tips for the writing process and key components to include in each section of a scientific manuscript Section Three explores publication within a traditional peer reviewed journal Section Four outlines additional strategies to get research publicly recognized through conference presentations social media and popular media sources and white and grey literature Sections Five and Six offer a consolidated glossary of all key terms in the text and combined reference list

Assembling Arguments Jonathan Buehl, 2016-01-20 Scientific arguments and indeed arguments in most disciplines depend on visuals and other nontextual elements however most models of argumentation typically neglect these important resources In Assembling Arguments Jonathan Buehl offers a concentrated study of scientific argumentation that is sensitive to both the historical and theoretical possibilities of multimodal persuasion as it advances two related claims First rhetorical theory when augmented with methods for reading nonverbal representations can provide the analytical tools needed to understand and appreciate multimodal scientific arguments Second science an inherently multimodal enterprise offers ideal subjects for developing general theories of multimodal rhetoric applicable across fields In developing these claims Buehl offers a comprehensive account of scientific persuasion as a multimodal process and develops a simple but productive framework for analyzing and teaching multimodal argumentation Comprising five case studies the book provides detailed treatments of argumentation in specific technological and historical contexts argumentation before World War I when images circulated by hand and by post argumentation during the mid twentieth century when computers were beginning to bolster scientific inquiry but images remained hand crafted products and argumentation at the turn of the twenty first century an era of digital revolutions and digital fraud Each study examines the rhetorical problems and strategies of specific scientists to investigate key issues regarding visualization and argument 1 establishing new instruments as reliable sources of visual evidence 2 creating novel arguments from reliable visual evidence 3 creating novel arguments with unreliable visual evidence 4 preserving the credibility of visualization practices and 5 creating multimodal artifacts before and in the era of digital circulation Given the growing enterprise of rhetorical studies and the field s contributions to communication practices in all disciplines rhetoricians need a comprehensive rhetoric of science one that accounts for the multimodal arguments that change our relation to reality Assembling Arguments argues that such rhetoric should enable the interpretation of visual scientific arguments and improve science writing instruction

Nature Sir Norman Lockyer,2008 Enhancing Scientific Reproducibility in Biomedical Research Through Transparent Reporting National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Health and Medicine Division,Board on Health Care Services,Board on Health Sciences Policy,Roundtable on Genomics and Precision Health,National Cancer Policy Forum,Forum on Neuroscience and Nervous System Disorders,Forum on Drug Discovery, Development, and Translation,2020-04-28 Sharing knowledge is what drives scientific progress each new advance or innovation in biomedical research builds on previous observations However for experimental findings to be broadly accepted as credible by the scientific community they must be verified by other researchers An essential step is for researchers to report their findings in a manner that is understandable to others in the scientific community and provide sufficient information for others to validate the original results and build on them In recent years concern has been growing over a number of studies that have failed to replicate previous results and evidence from larger meta analyses which have pointed to the lack of reproducibility in biomedical research On September 25 and 26 2019 the National Academies of Science Engineering and Medicine hosted a public workshop in Washington DC to discuss the current state of transparency in the reporting of preclinical biomedical research and to explore opportunities for harmonizing reporting guidelines across journals and funding agencies Convened jointly by the Forum on Drug Discovery Development and Translation the Forum on Neuroscience and Nervous System Disorders the National Cancer Policy Forum and the Roundtable on Genomics and Precision Health the workshop primarily focused on transparent reporting in preclinical research but also considered lessons learned and best practices from clinical research reporting This publication summarizes the presentation and discussion of the workshop Encyclopedia of Science and Technology Communication Susanna Hornig Priest,2010-07-14 In the academic world the term science communication refers both to a set of professions such as science journalism and public information work and to an interdisciplinary scholarly research specialization Much of this research is aimed at improving our understanding of the best ways to communicate complex information especially to people who are not scientists Science communication specialists are concerned with giving people useful information about health environment and technology as well as science itself In order to do this we also need to improve our understanding of how people think form opinions and process information Additionally professional practitioners in science communication are engaged in strategic and ethical decisions every day such as How should reporters cover the issue of climate change Should the views of scientists who do not believe that climate change has been caused by human activity be included alongside the views of those who do in order to give a balanced story or does this mislead the public into thinking that both of these positions are equally accepted within the scientific community The Encyclopedia of Science and Technology Communication provides information on the entire range of interrelated issues in this interdisciplinary field in one place along with clear suggestions on where to begin the search for more Geared towards undergraduate and graduate students in journalism communication mass communication and media studies as well as towards working journalists public information officers and public relations specialists this encyclopedia introduces this vast fascinating field while challenging the reader to question assumptions inherent in communication across disciplinary boundaries Key Themes Associations and Organizations Audiences Opinions and Effects Challenges Issues and Controversies Changing Awareness Opinion And Behavior Critical Influences and Events Global and International Aspects Government Agencies US History Philosophy and Sociology of Science Important Figures Journal Publications Key Cases and Current Trends Law Policy Ethics and Beliefs Major Infrastructural Initiatives Practices Strategies and Tools Professional Roles and Careers Public Engagement Approaches Theory and Research Venues and Channels
