across the race and class differences that marked their experience Tolliver argues that the French tongue both enabled and delimited connections between these writers restricting their potential with the language's own imperial history The literary map that emerges demonstrates the plurality of French language literatures going beyond the concept of a single unitary francophone literature to appreciate the profuse range of imaginaries connected by solidary texts that hoped for transformative independence Importantly the book expands the francophone framework by connecting African and Caribbean literatures to Québecois literature attending to their interactions while recognizing their particularities The Quebec Connection's analysis of transnational francophone solidarities radically alters the field of francophone studies by redressing the racial logic that isolates the northern province from what has come to be called the postcolonial world Frédéric Dard dit San-Antonio Pierre Creet, Thierry Gautier, 2001 *Les Oeuvres Choies de George Sand. Exile and Return in African and Caribbean Literature Patoimbasba Nikiema, 2025-08-26. Exile is often perceived as an irreversible rupture a state of loss and estrangement. Yet in African and Caribbean literature exile and return form a dynamic interplay that reshapes personal collective and national identities. This book challenges traditional notions of exile as suffering and return as simple reconnection with homeland and loved ones arguing that in many instances exile fosters deep introspection and transformation while return serves as active engagement with the homeland's sociopolitical and cultural realities. Through close readings of works by transnational writers namely Khadi Hane Malika Mokeddem Dany Laferrière and Alain Mabankou this study explores how exile and return create new forms of belonging political consciousness and cultural renewal. It gives voice to exiles navigating the displacement alienation and contradictions of the return. At a time when migration remains a polarizing issue in political discourses across Europe and the United States this book reconsiders exile beyond narrative despair revealing its potential as a space of reinvention. By bridging exilic imagination and homeland realities this book offers a fresh perspective on how African and Caribbean writers envision the return as an Afrotopian project a participative endeavor that rethinks the future of Africa and the Caribbean as a space of possibilities.
