Van Schooneveld,2019-11-22 This is book two of a series of three books The series takes students on an interdisciplinary cross content journey entitled Creating Art Through the Ages Each book provides experiences in language arts social studies math and art as the students investigate ancient and modern civilizations Discovery and Knowledge explores the ancient Roman civilization the Middles Ages and Renaissance Explorers set sail to discover land treasures raw materials and knowledge on behalf of their mother country and religion The development of the printing press enabled the disbursement of knowledge through books Discovery and the pursuit of knowledge is the underlying theme during this era In this book it is reimagined for students with experiences through stories interactive role playing activities and art projects Writing Across the Curriculum Beryl Bennett, The New Afrabia Chris Landsberg,2007-06-12 In recent years South Africa has emerged as a pivotal African state one which seeks to give meaning and substance to the notion of Ali Mazrui s Afrabia by gearing its already crowded foreign policy agenda towards advancing strategic Afro Arab relations To this end South Africa has articulated African Arab and Middle East agendas This has involved the positioning of the country in a way that allows it to become a critical player in shaping the development agenda of the continent partly through its efforts in building and operating two pan African bodies namely the African Union AU and the New Partnership for Africa s Development NEPAD The Middle East occupies a high strategic plane in South Africa s foreign policy South Africa has pursued a very independent posture vis vis the conflict in Iraq Before the US led coalition s invasion in March 2003 President Mbeki and his envoys tried to encourage both the Western powers and Saddam Hussein s regime to fulfill international obligations Saudi Arabia Syria and Iran remain key players despite their strained relations with the United States South Africa has been openly concerned about the US posture towards these countries it has stressed the right of Iran as guaranteed by the NPT to develop a civilian nuclear capability and program and has called for the nuclear stand off to be settled peacefully and through diplomatic means For many years the Arabian Gulf region has been of strategic importance to South Africa because it is the source of most of the Republic s oil imports Since 1999 South Africa s economic interaction with the region has expanded significantly partly as a result of bilateral agreements established with a number of the Gulf States but also because South Africa considers the Gulf a strategic priority in terms of foreign policy Since 1994 the Gulf States have become steadily more confident about South Africa as a reliable destination for investment and as a trustworthy supplier of goods and services South Africa needs to work harder to cultivate a strong presence and identity in the Middle East especially in the Gulf countries where the opportunities for economic dividends are great Enhancing opportunities in the Middle East will require a more strategic approach on the home front and a multi pronged approach that would see greater collaboration and harmonization between key actors involved in the management of the country's external affairs and foreign policy Secrecy, Public Relations and the British Nuclear Debate Daniel

Salisbury, 2020-02-06 This book constitutes an original archival history of government secrecy public relations and the debate surrounding nuclear weapons in Britain from 1970 to 1983 The book contrasts the secrecy and near silence of the Heath Wilson and Callaghan governments on nuclear issues in the 1970s with the increasingly vocal case made for the possession of nuclear weapons by the first Thatcher government following a shift in approach in 1980 This shift occurred against a background of rising Cold War tensions and a growing public nuclear debate in the UK The book seeks to contextualise and explain this transformation considering the role of party politics structures and personalities inside the government and external influences notably the role of investigative journalists and think tanks in cracking open official secrecy and demanding justification for Britain's possession of nuclear weapons and the peace movement in driving increasingly assertive public relations from 1980 The book draws on material from archives and interviews with key figures involved to provide an original and engaging account It argues that this process of opening up saw significant disclosure of nuclear policy for the first time and the most extensive public justification of the British nuclear capability to date which has shaped public understanding of British nuclear weapons into the twenty first century This book will be of much interest to students of British politics Cold War studies nuclear politics and security studies Hearings United States.
