Sarigumba,2014-02-14 As an autobiography

The Distant Glow traces the story of my life to the rough and rigorous way of life in Corella Bohol my birthplace Descending from generations of very poor and illiterate ancestors I exceeded my parents grade three education by finishing grade six and graduating as elementary school valedictorian Because my parents could not afford to send me to high school in the city I stayed out of school for six years helping my father on the farm and my mother in household chores One of several backbreaking works I used to do was climbing several coconut trees about 50 feet in height to tap the trees sanggutan for tuba a coconut juice that yields mildly alcoholic drink I used to climb 20 coconut trees every morning noon and evening mount over top sit on one of the palms and tap the juice One evening after sunset while atop the sanggutan I saw a glow a distant glow I muttered to myself Someday Ill find out what causes that glow I equated that statement to my goals in life I did find out what caused the distant glow Other distant glows appeared and I reached most of them with hard work and having a dream When the owners of a private school offered me an opportunity to go to their school free of tuition provided that I maintained the first place standing in the class honor roll I went to high school starting at age 20 To help shoulder the other costs of going to high school in the city I paid my room and board with service scrubbing and polishing the floor fetching water from an artesian well and gathering firewood every weekend for the landlord family With all the hardship I maintained the tuition free deal and graduated from high school as class valedictorian

Walter,2020-02-23 This book explores evidence based practice in college science teaching It is grounded in disciplinary education research by practicing scientists who have chosen to take Wieman s 2014 challenge seriously and to investigate claims about the efficacy of alternative strategies in college science teaching In editing this book we have chosen to showcase outstanding cases of exemplary practice supported by solid evidence and to include practitioners who offer models of teaching and learning that meet the high standards of the scientific disciplines Our intention is to let these distinguished scientists speak for themselves and to offer authentic guidance to those who seek models of excellence Our primary audience consists of the thousands of dedicated faculty and graduate students who teach undergraduate science at community and technical colleges 4 year liberal arts institutions comprehensive regional campuses and flagship research universities In keeping with Wieman s challenge our primary focus has been on identifying classroom practices that encourage and support meaningful learning and conceptual understanding in the natural sciences The content is structured as follows after an Introduction based on Constructivist Learning Theory Section I the practices we explore are Eliciting Ideas and Encouraging Reflection Section II Using Clickers to Engage Students Section III Supporting Peer Interaction through Small Group Activities Section IV Restructuring Curriculum and Instruction Section V Rethinking the Physical Environment Section VI Enhancing Understanding with Technology Section VII and Assessing Understanding Section VIII The book's final section IX is devoted to Professional Issues facing college and university faculty who choose to adopt active learning in their courses The common feature underlying all of the strategies described in this book is their emphasis on actively engaging students who seek to make sense of natural objects and events Many of the strategies we highlight emerge from a constructivist view of learning that has gained widespread acceptance in recent years In this view learners make sense of the world by forging connections between new ideas and those that are part of their existing knowledge base For most students that knowledge base is riddled with a host of naive notions misconceptions and alternative conceptions they have acquired throughout their lives To a considerable extent the job of the teacher is to coax out these ideas to help students understand how their ideas differ from the scientifically accepted view to assist as students restructure and reconcile their newly acquired knowledge and to provide opportunities for students to evaluate what they have learned and apply it in novel circumstances Clearly this prescription demands far more than most college and university scientists have been prepared for
