The impact of computers on all realms of Chemistry has been one of the most important factors in the development of this science during the last years. In recognition of this fact in 1971 the First International Conference on Computers in Chemical Research and Education was held at DeKalb Illinois USA. A second Conference took place in Ljubljana Yugoslavia in 1973 and this third Conference in Caracas Venezuela in 1976. The aim of these conferences was to provide a high level forum for the leading researchers to exchange information at the frontiers of present day computer applications to the different fields of Chemistry. The present Third International Conference on Computers in Chemical Research Education and Technology whose proceedings are published in the present volume was conceived by means of a series of invited lectures as a survey of the present state of the art in some of the most relevant areas of computer applications in Chemistry.

Molecular Approaches to Soil, Rhizosphere and Plant Microorganism Analysis John Eric Cooper, J. R. Rao, 2006 Plants have evolved both general and highly specialized defence mechanisms that function to prevent diseases caused by the majority of microbial pathogens they encounter. Highly specialized defence is governed by specific interactions between pathogen avr/avirulence genes/loci and alleles of the corresponding plant disease resistance R loci. These defences can be very dynamic as microbes from the same species can act differently in their co-evolution with the specific host plant which in turn has similarly evolved its response to external threats. There have been major developments in the field of plant-microbe interactions in recent years due to newly developed techniques and the availability of genomic information. Molecular Plant-Microbe Interactions explores these new discoveries focusing primarily on the mechanisms controlling plant disease resistance, the cross-talk among the pathways involved and the strategies used by the pathogens to suppress these defences. By exploring developments in plant defences, pathogen's counter defences and mutually beneficial plant-microbe interactions, this book will be useful for researchers and students in plant pathology and plant biology related areas.
