Life Sciencesg12 Pjune Memo:

Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee, 2006-11-05
The Committee's report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues: the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level; the provision of careers advice to students; problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers; the quality of teaching methods; and the role of continuing professional development. The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond. It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14-19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate. This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics. Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers, particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers; the quality of careers advice in schools; and the importance of practical science in schools.

Public Human Resource Management Richard C. Kearney, Jerrell D. Coggburn, 2015-07-30
Public Human Resource Management Problems and Prospects brings together exemplary contributors who provide concise essays on major contemporary public human resources management issues. Organized into four parts setting techniques, issues and prospects and covering the major process, function and policy issues in the field, the text offers valuable wisdom to students and practitioners alike. With sixteen new and eleven updated chapters authored by the leading figures in the field as well as by up and coming new scholars, the new edition works as a primary or supplementary text for courses in human resource management or issues in public administration.

People of Today, 2006 Yearbook of International Organizations 2005/2006, 2005-06
For the Yearbook of International Organizations, the most up to date and comprehensive reference to international organizations, the UIA has selected the most important 31 086 organizations from its extensive database of current and previous organizations. Yearbook provides profiles of 5 546 intergovernmental and 25 540 international non governmental organizations active in nearly 300 countries and territories in the world today. Organization descriptions listed in Volume 1 are numbered sequentially to facilitate quick and easy cross referencing from the other Yearbook Volumes. Users can refer to Volumes 2 and 3 to locate organizations by region or subject respectively and comprehensive indexes are included. Naturally, the high standards of accuracy, consistency and detail set by previous editions of the Yearbook of International Organizations have been maintained for this edition. Yearbook of International Organizations, 1984-12

Alloys Index, 1987 Australian National Bibliography, 1984 Arts & Humanities Citation Index, 1981
