

Lab 52: Fertilization and Early Development

Introduction

Fertilization is the process by which the nuclei of an egg and a sperm cell fuse together to form a new cell, the zygote. This process is essential for the development of a new organism.

In sexually reproducing organisms, the egg and sperm cells are produced by meiosis, a process that results in the formation of haploid cells. These cells then fuse during fertilization to form a diploid zygote. The zygote then undergoes cleavage, a series of cell divisions that result in the formation of a blastocyst, which is the early stage of development.

During the fertilization process, the egg and sperm cells fuse to form a zygote. The zygote then undergoes cleavage, a series of cell divisions that result in the formation of a blastocyst, which is the early stage of development.

Purpose
