Community Secondary Schools in Tanzania Elia Shabani Mligo, Devotha Lawrence Mshana, 2018-01-22 Community Secondary Schools are the majority secondary schools in Tanzania. These are schools built by community initiatives with the aim of helping more children acquire a secondary education. Despite this good intention, these schools face a number of challenges. One such challenge has to do with academic performance. This book investigates this challenge. It examines the factors that contribute to students' poor performance in the community secondary schools in Tanzania to discern the main factors contributing to their poor performance. Many factors contribute to students' poor performance, such as lack of support from parents on educational issues, teachers' and students' attitudes and perceptions on education, inadequate learning and teaching materials and resources, learning and teaching environments, as well as lack of adequate motivation for teachers and students. This book explores these challenges and proposes future prospects to make such schools have efficient performance in Tanzania and other places of the world they are found.

Regionalization of African Higher Education Jane Knight, Emnet Tadesse Woldegiorgis, 2017-04-17 Growth in the scope, scale, and importance of higher education regionalization should not be underestimated or ignored. Africa, like Asia, Europe, and Latin America, is promoting deeper cooperation among higher education bodies and institutions across the continent and focusing more attention on Pan African and sub-regional harmonization of policies and programmes. This is the first book which brings together diverse scholars and policy experts to examine key aspects and challenges of African higher education regionalization. Chapters examine the progress and prospects of core regionalization issues and strategies such as academic mobility, quality assurance, recognition of qualifications, research centres and networks, curriculum and competencies, and regional academic programmes. Other chapters discuss important themes such as the relationship between regionalization, internationalization, and Africanization; historical antecedents and perspectives; an analytical model to understand functional, organizational, and political approaches to Africa's higher education regionalization; and the influence of the Bologna process on the African Union's Strategy for the Harmonization of Higher Education Programmes. Together, these chapters provide a comprehensive overview of efforts by the African Union, sub-regional higher education associations such as IUCEA, SARUA, and CAMES, Pan African organizations, and actors, key research networks and centres of excellence, and the involvement or dependence on external actors and funders, especially from Europe. Fundamentally, the book asks the question whether higher education regionalization in Africa is more rhetoric than reality. It discusses the progress to date on specific themes, identifies historical, political, sustainability, and funding challenges, and concludes that while the impacts of regionalization efforts have not been fully realized, there is cautious optimism for the future.
