

Genetics Final Exam Study Guide

- ii. Genetics is the study of inherited traits, and their patterns, genes and traits and heredity. They fall into three broad hereditary categories:
- Genes are made up of DNA (Deoxyribonucleic Acid).
 - A trait is any characteristic that an organism displays. Traits are produced by an interaction between genetic and environmental factors.
 - The genome is the complete set of genetic instructions (including all an organism's chromosomes) a biological systems' total complement of inheritable instructions.
 - Only 1-2% of our DNA encodes proteins.
 - 98-99% of the genome contains DNA sequences that are either: repeating features that don't encode proteins.
 - 98-99% of the genome contains DNA sequences that regulate expression of proteins.
 - For a gene that encodes a sequence, a mutation must occur in that gene's sequence in the DNA.
 - For a gene that encodes a sequence, a mutation must occur in that gene's sequence and then must be passed from parent to offspring.
 - The genome contains many repetitive DNA sequences that do not encode proteins found in the genome.
 - Chromosomes hold all (very) important genes and associated proteins.
 - Similar genome structures exist.
 - All cells in body contain the same genome.
 - Every genome contains an "easel" for making all body's proteins.
- iii. Expression of genes
- protein sequence of a protein-coding feature
 - protein sequence of a noncoding protein
 - DNA sequence in the genome of a human cell contains a regulatory site is regulatory because it tells the cell what to express or if a trait is phenotypic.
