Rozelle Hospital Edward H. Moxon, 2024-11-29 In the 1960s psychiatry was entering a new phase of its development However many people were uncomfortable with these changes and fought against what they saw as apostasy dangerous and unprofessional decisions by the bureaucracy The role of Nurses before 1960 was task oriented to control behaviour give somatic treatments when ordered and provide the daily personal needs of their patients a custodial model Since 1960 the nursing profession ancillary staff and Doctors have been forced to reassess their traditional involvement and develop new skills All previous somatic treatments were abandoned or rarely used in mainstream psychiatry The only tools left for nurses were consciously using self in a therapeutic relationship communicating sharing developing empathy and compassion and helping the patient gain insight self awareness and problem solving skills No longer were the staff seen as the boss demanding obedience Nurses had to learn how to work in alternative environments halfway houses day clinics community clinics night hospitals acute units work with mixed sexes and learn new skills through family therapy TA cognitive behaviour modification encounter groups gestalt therapy reality therapy and a therapeutic community and adapt to different age and cultural groups Management of wards and staff presented a challenge to administrators In patients attained much more freedom and self government with these developments The hierarchy was flatter industrial democracy was expected and workers had to cope with changing organisational structures Government decision making was a constant source of conflict A new approach to management emerged trust replaced control and self government replaced regimentation Where were all these developments leading What of the future Volume Two explores the sequel and exposes the intrigues promises hypocrisy lies neglect social engineering and the fate of long term residents and people with acute psychiatric episodes

Migrant Health Professionals and the Global Labour Market Radha Adhikari, 2019-10-29 This book offers a fresh perspective on gender debates in Nepal and analyses how the international migration of the first generation of professional female Nepali nurses has been a catalyst for social change. With unprecedented access to study participants in Nepal, the source country, following them and their networks in the UK, the destination country, this ethnographic study explores Nepali nurses' migration journeys, relocation experiences, and their international migration dreams and aspirations. It illustrates how migrant nurses strive to manage social and professional difficulties as they work towards achieving their ultimate migration aims. The book shows that nursing shortages and international nurse migration are issues of gender on a global scale and that the current trend of privatisation in health systems makes the labour market vulnerable and stimulates international migration of health professionals. Arguing that international nurse migration is an integral part of the globalisation of health, the author highlights key policy strategies that are useful for global nursing and health workforce management. A well-informed and much-needed study of nurse migration in the global healthcare market, this book will be of interest to professionals and academics working in nursing studies, health and social care studies, gender and international migration studies, and global health studies, as well as South Asian studies.

Health Resources Statistics National Center for Health Statistics (U.S.), 1976 Participatory Case Study Work Sion Williams, John Keady, 2021-01-03. Participatory Case Study Work shows academic co-researchers how to adapt and implement their methods so that data collection and analysis is authentically participatory. At the heart of this text is advocating a participatory approach to case study work with co-construction as a catalyst for shared understanding and action in advancing ageing studies. Whilst case study research has a relatively long tradition in the canon of research methodologies, little attention has so far been paid to the importance and value of participatory case study work. This is surprising as its egalitarian and democratic value base naturally lends itself to the co-production and co-creation of personal and collective theory drawn directly from lived experience. The book brings together over 15 years' worth of participatory case study work in ageing studies in which the editors have been actively involved as either front-line researchers or as supervisors to PhD and MPhil studies adopting the methodology and from where each of the contributors is selected. Real-life case examples are shared in the main chapters of the book and they provide direction as to how learning can be applied to other settings. The chapters also contain key references and recommended reading. This volume will appeal to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as postdoctoral researchers interested in fields such as research methods, qualitative methods, ageing studies, and mental health studies.
