The Influence of Teacher-Student Relationships and Feedback on Students' Engagement with Learning Roger Wood, 2018-06-11 This book presents a potential hierarchy between the three basic psychological needs central to Self Determination Theory SDT Findings from the author s research suggest that the motivation to exercise autonomy is an outcome that is cumulatively influenced by the perceived quality of the teacher student relationship and students perceived competence within specific learning contexts and with a specific teacher These findings are the basis for three hypotheses regarding students motivation to engage with learning activities The first is that perceived competence is informed by and reciprocally informs the quality of the teacher student relationship The second is that students perceived competence and the quality of the teacher student relationship have a combined impact upon students autonomous motivation The final posit is that a teacher can be autonomy supportive both prior to and during activities where students have opportunities to exercise their autonomy Such autonomy support includes the influence of teacher feedback upon students perceived competence and their subsequent motivation to autonomously engage with learning activities This research begins to unravel such motivational interplay through an SDT informed model which is used as the basis for discussing the specific influence of teacher feedback and autonomy support upon students engagement with learning activities in formal learning settings The findings and model are worthy of further testing and development as part of the wider agenda of student engagement wellbeing and positive psychology prevalent in educational research education psychology and the philosophy of social motivation Kenya Gazette ,1974-06-28 The Kenya Gazette is an official publication of the government of the Republic of Kenya It contains notices of new legislation notices required to be published by law or policy as well as other announcements that are published for general public information It is published every week usually on Friday with occasional releases of special or supplementary editions within the week The History of Educational Measurement Brian E. Navigating a Changing World Geoffrey Hale,Greg Anderson,2021-04-07 The negotiation of the Canada U S Free Trade agreement in 1985 88 initiated a period of substantially increased North American and later global economic integration However events since the election of Donald Trump in 2016 have created the potential for major policy shifts arising from NAFTA s renegotiation and continuing political uncertainties in the United States and with Canada s other major trading partners Navigating a Changing World draws together scholars from both countries to examine Canada U S policy relations the evolution of various processes for regulating market and human movements across national borders and the specific application of these dynamics to a cross section of policy fields with significant implications for Canadian public policy It explores the impact of territorial institutions and extra territorial forces institutional economic and technological among others on interactions across national borders both within North America and where relevant in broader economic relationships affecting the movement of goods services people and capital Above all Navigating a Changing World represents the first major study to address Canada s international policy relations within and beyond North America since the elections of Justin Trudeau in 2015 and Donald Trump in 2016 and the renegotiation of NAFTA Education in a Digital World Neil Selwyn,2013 The book takes a comprehensive look at digital technology use in educational settings around the world Drawing on a wealth of theoretical and empirical work the book tackles a number of pressing questions British Columbia's Borders in Globalization Nicole Bates-Eamer,Helga Kristín Hallgrímsdóttir,2021-11-24 This book is a case study collection examining the influences and functions of British Columbia's BC borders in the 21st century British Columbia's Borders in Globalization examines bordering processes and the causes and effects of borders in the Cascadian region from the perspective of BC. The chapters cover diverse topics including historical border disputes and cannabis culture and identity, the governance of transboundary water flows, migration and preclearance policies for goods and people, and the emerging issue of online communities. The case studies provide examples that highlight the simultaneous but contradictory trends regarding borders in BC while boundaries and bordering processes at the external borders shift away from the territorial boundary lines. Self-determination, local politics, and cultural identities re-inscribe internal boundaries and borders that are both virtual and real. Moreover, economic protectionism, racial discourses, and xenophobic narratives driven by advances in technology reinforce the territorial dimensions of borders. These case studies contribute to the literature challenging the notion that territorial borders are sufficient for understanding how borders function in BC, and in a few instances, they illustrate the nuanced ways in which borders or bordering processes are becoming detached from territory. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Borderlands Studies.

Hans-Jürgen Syberberg, the Film Director as Critical Thinker Xue Lan Rong, Jeremy Hilburn, 2016-12-27

Fourth wave immigration with its vast economic, ethnic, cultural, linguistic, and religious diversities have brought new dynamics into the existing social and demographic structures and added both opportunities and challenges to educational systems in North Carolina, a Southern U.S. state with the fastest growing rate of foreign born population in the nation in 1990-2010 and unique geopolitical history. This book brings together 17 scholars who have extensive experience working with immigrants in North Carolina and represent a wide range of educational expertise. Together, their studies illustrate the intersections between historical contexts, geopolitical, historical constraints, structural factors, power, policies, and laws, institutions, and organization, cultural issues, philosophies, ideologies, identities, beliefs, values, and traditions, and immigrant students' characteristics on the development of educational practices, policies, reforms, and resistance.

Most importantly, studying how North Carolina education systems and actors adapt to meet the challenges may offer valuable opportunities for researchers to understand the transformation of educational systems in other new gateway states. Collectively, studies in this book deconstruct the framework of the traditional hierarchical assimilation and linguistic policies in recasting the concept of becoming Americans in the New South. The authors utilize frameworks that recognize the structural barriers that disadvantage immigrants in new gateway states but also position youth, families, and communities as possessing and utilizing valuable resources to promote educational access and achievement. In this sense, this book contributes significantly to major contemporary empirical and theoretical debates relating to educating immigrant children. It is our hope that this critical dialogue will continue at a national platform to promote discussion of these timely issues.
