Committee: Towards the Next Defence and Security Review: Part One - HC 197 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2014-01-07 In this report the Defence Committee argues that the capabilities of HM Forces should be determined not by budgetary constraints but by a fully developed strategy which defines the position in the world that the UK wants to adopt The report urges the government to produce a comprehensive national security strategy in the first place and let that document along with the Comprehensive Spending Review CSR direct the next Strategic Defence and Security Review SDSR The allocation of resources will be based on national spending priorities set to meet the nation s security needs There is a danger of defence becoming a matter of discretionary spending Decisions about the expeditionary capability that the UK retains must be based on proper strategic decision making about the UK s place in the world and not simply flow from the horse trading that surrounds the CSR process The report points to a lack of understanding amongst the public of why we have Armed Forces General sympathy and support for the Armed Forces must not obscure a hard headed understanding of what they are for The process of producing the next Defence and Security Review is the opportunity to engage the public in understanding the future of the Armed Forces The Committee has very real concerns about the focus that will be given to the number of asymmetric security threats to the UK such as from terrorism or cyber attack The Government must think more strategically about the resilience of the country s critical infrastructure and recovery following an attack Equipment, support and technology for UK defence and security Great Britain: Ministry of Defence, 2012-02

The European Union in the Security of Europe Steve Marsh,Wyn Rees,2012-03-12 This book examines the European Union s contribution to providing security in Europe amidst an increasingly complex and challenging environment In this new and comprehensive guide to the EU s role in security since the end of the Cold War the authors offer an explanation of EU internal and external security regimes and argue that the Union has become an important exporter of security within its region However the Union s rhetorical ambitions and commitments continue to outstrip its capabilities and it lacks both a common conceptualisation of security and a meaningful shared strategic culture Drawing extensively on primary sources the book examines the Union s relations with the US and Russia in a time of shifting geostrategic calculations and priorities With the EU capacity for enlargement slowing this text presents a detailed assessment of EU security policies towards Central Europe the Mediterranean the Western Balkans Eastern Europe and South Caucasus European Union Security will be of interest to students and scholars of the EU security studies and international relations Green Paper on Defence Ireland. Department of Defence,2013 NATO's Post-Cold War Trajectory M. Webber,J. Sperling,M. Smith,2012-08-20 Two decades since the watershed of the Cold War this book investigates NATO s staying power This book investigates how the Alliance has adapted and managed to attend to new roles and purposes through the lens of International Relations theory The Alliance will continue but will remain subject to ongoing crises and challenges of change The Strategic Defence and Security Review Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee,2010-09-15 On 7 July 2009 the Ministry of Defence announced its plan for a Strategic Defence Review to follow the 2010 General Election The predecessor Defence Committee reported its views on the proposed Review in its fourth report of session 2009 10 HC 53 ISBN 9780215543912 The current Defence Committee supports the recommendation in that report that the Review be broadened in scope in order to set the country s defence needs in a stronger foreign and security policy context It is however recognised that the inclusion of broadly defined security concerns within the Review risks the dilution of the defence contribution Immediate or short term security issues and threats might dominate the Review to the exclusion of the medium to long term defence assessments made by the MoD The Government s need to tackle the deficit is understood yet there is concern at the possible consequences of the MoD s budget not being ring fenced for the future unlike those of the DFID and Department of Health The capacity of the country even to sustain current in use capabilities and therefore current operations could well be put at risk by the proposed cuts of between 10% and 20% This report looks at these risks and the specific issues including those of public consultation and the speed at which the Review process is being undertaken involved Back from the Brink Kevin Clements,2015-12-21 Back from the Brink is a history of New Zealand policy on nuclear power and the growth of the anti nuclear movement culminating in the 1984 Labour Government s No Nukes policy Kevin Clements a sociology lecturer and peace activist provides a thorough meticulously researched examination of the implications of New Zealand's stance. Tracing the history of the country's involvement in the nuclear arms race he thoughtfully analyses the questions facing New Zealand in an age dominated by nuclear power.

Canada Among Nations 1985 Tomlin, Brian, Appel Molot, Maureen, 1986 The 1985 edition of Canada Among Nations examines the reshaping of Canadian foreign policy that characterized the Mulroney Conservative government's first full year in power. Initially the new government's handling of foreign policy was marred by indecision and internal tension. By the end of 1985 however Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's ad hoc interventions on foreign affairs had ceased and the move to a more formal decision making process accompanied a rise in the influence of External Affairs Minister Joe Clark. This edition of Canada Among Nations analyses the Mulroney government's agenda setting experience from a range of perspectives: international security, the economy, relations with the Third World and the federal policy making process.

The Defence Industrial Triptych Henrik Heidenkamp, John Louth, Trevor Taylor, 2015-02-20 The relationship between government and the businesses that contribute towards the defence and security of the state is a critical one: it often underscores a modern state's foreign policy and sense of place in the world. Yet despite its clear importance this subject is underexplored and rarely analysed in a rigorous manner. As a consequence government defence industrial policies, if they exist at all, often seem somewhat contrived, ill considered and contradictory. The Defence Industrial Triptych systematically analyses the components and drivers of the relationships that bind a government to its defence industrial base by examining three major case studies: the UK, US and Germany, who between them account for over three quarters of NATO defence spending. The features of their defence industrial relationships, whether common or unique, provide vital lessons for policy makers, industrialists and the taxpayer. As defence cuts bite across NATO and as the UK approaches the 2015 Strategic Defence and Security Review the relationships this Whitehall Paper considers are more important than ever.

National, European and Human Security Mary Martin, Mary Kaldor, Narcís Serra, 2013 This book examines how national security strategies relate to an emerging common European or global vision of security and to human security ideas Human security and national security are often regarded as competing and mutually antagonistic the former was proposed and has been operationalised in ways which represent a paradigm shift away from state centric approaches and the dominance of national security perspectives This has led to human security being associated with a broadening of the security agenda to encompass not only physical security the use of force and military capabilities but also the provision of material well being and dignity to vulnerable communities This edited volume seeks to identify key concepts and themes in the national discourse of several European countries addressing security at a meta narrative and conceptual level illustrating the changes taking place in approaches to security and in particular mapping moves away from a paradigm of national security to one which might be called human security It also enables an assessment of whether national security is currently converging at either European or global levels This book will be of much interest to students of human security European politics discourse analysis war and conflict studies and IR security studies in general

Parliamentary Debates (Hansard). Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1985

Readiness and recuperation of the Armed Forces Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2010-02-10 The Defence Committee states that the forthcoming Strategic Defence Review should take account of the current low readiness levels of the Armed Forces and the need for their effective recuperation The Armed Forces have been involved in operations in Iraq and Afghanistan for many years while maintaining key standing tasks such as the strategic nuclear deterrent and UK air defence They have been deployed above the Defence Planning Assumptions the level at which they are structured and funded for seven years Nevertheless the Committee considers it unsatisfactory that readiness levels have been allowed to fall to the extent that they have and recommends that the Strategic Defence Review reviews the utility and content of the Defence Planning Assumptions and readiness targets Recuperation is the process by which force elements are returned to target levels of readiness It involves all the underlying components manpower equipment training and logistics support The drawdown of troops from Iraq should provide the MoD with an opportunity to recuperate the Armed Forces and to reverse the fall in readiness But there have also been pressures on personnel with significant numbers of the Army and the Marines and those in key pinch point trades such as medical personnel being deployed more frequently than the MoD would wish breaking harmony guidelines If readiness is to be improved then the Army must return to being deployed within harmony guidelines as soon as practicable

European Security Governance and the European Neighbourhood after the Lisbon Treaty Christian Kaunert, Sarah Léonard, 2013-09-13 The EU has often been considered to be a weak security actor However any assessment of the EU's role in international security is underpinned by a specific understanding of security This book is based on a broad understanding of security We consider that security concerns are increasingly triggered by challenges such as terrorism climate change mass migration flows and many other non traditional security issues This book tries to capture these aspects of the EU's fast changing security policies following the entry into force of the Lisbon Treaty on 1 December 2009 There are several common themes stemming from a combined reading of the chapters Firstly the EU has sought to simultaneously pursue its security objectives and spread its values such as democracy the rule of law and human rights by encouraging reforms in its neighbourhood However it is increasingly evident that there are tensions and contradictions between these two objectives which can be illuminated and better understood by considering another strand of literature with which there has been little engagement in EU studies to date namely the literature on human security This book is the first to analyse these hugely topical developments in European security after the Lisbon Treaty It was published as a special issue of Perspectives on European Politics and Society
