

Code of Ethics for Counselors

Objectives:

- Distinguish between ethical and unethical behavior among counselors.
- Identify ethical principles that counselors should employ in their practice.
- Distinguish appropriate and ethical behaviors in practice.

The Code of Ethics

The purpose of a code of ethics is

- to ensure that professional standards are maintained in practice, and
- to give practitioners an opportunity to improve and assess their service quality based on a standardized rubric.

The counseling relationship

The counseling relationship is the professional relationship between the counselor and the client.

Rapport should be established early in the counseling relationship to open more opportunities for growth.

In the counseling relationship, both the counselor and the client take active roles in addressing the client's issue.

Confidentiality, Privileged communication, and Privacy

confidentiality - a process that protects client's privacy through appropriate safekeeping of records and through ensuring that such information is only accessible to the client
