

A photograph of the main entrance gate to the University of Fort Hare. The gate is a wide, low-profile concrete structure with the university's name inscribed in large, black, sans-serif capital letters. It is supported by two large, square concrete pillars on either side, each featuring a grid of small, square windows. The road leading through the gate is paved and flanked by yellow and black striped bollards. In the background, there are lush green trees and a clear blue sky with some light clouds. A street lamp is visible on the left side of the frame.

A Social History of the University Presses in Apartheid South Africa Elizabeth Le Roux,2015-10-14 In A History of the University Presses in Apartheid South Africa Elizabeth le Roux examines scholarly publishing history academic freedom and knowledge production during the apartheid era Using archival materials comprehensive bibliographies and political sociology theory this work analyses the origins publishing lists and philosophies of the university presses The university presses are often associated with anti apartheid publishing and the promotion of academic freedom but this work reveals both greater complicity and complexity Elizabeth le Roux demonstrates that the university presses cannot be considered oppositional because they did not resist censorship and because they operated within the constraints of the higher education system but their publishing strategies became more liberal over time

Inside African Anthropology Andrew Bank,Leslie J. Bank,2013-04-08 Inside African Anthropology offers an incisive biography of the life and work of South Africa s foremost social anthropologist Monica Hunter Wilson By exploring her main fieldwork and intellectual projects in southern Africa between the 1920s and 1960s the book offers insights into her personal and intellectual life Beginning with her origins in the remote Eastern Cape the authors follow Wilson to the University of Cambridge and back into the field among the Mpondo of South Africa where her studies resulted in her 1936 book Reaction to Conquest Her fieldwork focus then shifted to Tanzania where she teamed up with her husband Godfrey Wilson In the 1960s Wilson embarked on a new urban ethnography with a young South African anthropologist Archie Mafeje one of the many black scholars she trained This study also provides a meticulously researched exploration of the indispensable contributions of African research assistants to the production of this famous woman scholar s cultural knowledge about mid twentieth century Africa

South African Urban Change Three Decades After Apartheid Anthony Lemon,Ronnie Donaldson,Gustav Visser,2021-06-10 This book provides an analysis of South African urban change over the past three decades It draws on a seminal text Homes Apart and revisits conclusions drawn in that collection that marked the final phases of urban apartheid. It highlights changes in demography, social as well as economic structure and their differential spatial expression across a range of urban sites in South Africa. The evidence presented in this book points to a very complex set of narratives in urban South Africa and one that cannot be reduced to a singular statement so the conclusions of the various investigations are in many ways open. As urban apartheid represented one clear outcome, its post-apartheid urban legacies varies greatly from city to city. As such, this book is a great resource to students and academics focused on urban change in South African cities since the demise of apartheid and scholars of urban policy making in South Africa and Southern urbanists generally.

Treading the waters of history Kondlo, Kwandiwe, Saunders, Chris, 2014-12-10. This volume is an anthology of thought pieces about the ANC contributed by a variety of scholars and thinkers. It gives voice to a variety of perspectives on the subject. The fact that some authors disagree with each other is all part of what will we hope be an on going debate. The book originated from a series of public dialogues that began before the centenary year and continued afterwards being held at the University of Free State. The first section covers reflections on how knowledge of the history of the ANC has advanced and the position of that history in the general history of the liberation struggle. This section aids a critical appraisal of the state of primary sources used in writing the history of the ANC. Chapters in the second half of the book consider some of the various contexts in which the ANC has operated and continues to operate. These include the evolution of the ANC's economic policy and how it has changed over time, the kind of leadership the organisation provided in redefining gender relations and most importantly the ANC and international relations especially seen from the vantage point of progressive internationalism. The last section examines the evolution of Pan Africanism in the ANC's ideological development.

Diamonds on a River of Tears Lr Penn, 2009-10. In this stunning work of historical fiction, LR Penn has concocted a breathtaking epic adventure that begins in 1890 in a small Zulu village in South Africa but spans three centuries and two continents. It is also a personal memoir that tells the story of a family torn apart by a racist totalitarian regime. The book examines a series of powerful conflicts, the cultural clash between ancient ethnic traditions and encroaching Western values the political battle between the underground resistance movement and the repressive military strength of a modern nation state and stirring personal conflicts as illustrated by the impossibly difficult choices that the novel's heroes are forced to make between the quest for liberation and the pursuit of love between a family's security and a people's freedom Diamonds on a River of Tears presents an in depth portrait of day to day life in a society altogether out of balance playfully juxtaposing its comic absurdities and tragic injustices but ultimately handing down a moral indictment that all of contemporary civilization will have to face AF Press Clips United States Department of State.
