Hermann Hesse's Fictions of the Self Eugene L. Stelzig, 2014-07-14 This masterful synthesis of criticism and biography surveys all of Hermann Hesse's major works and many of his minor ones in relation to the intricate psychological design of his entire life history Eugene Stelzig examines what it means to be an autobiographical writer by considering Hesse's fictions of the self as an exemplary instance of the relationship between life and art and between biography and autobiography In a graceful and inviting style he frees this major confessional writer from the confines of German culture and the status of cult figure of the 1960s and situates him in the tradition of world literature and in a variety of literary psychological philosophical and religious contexts Three introductory chapters on autobiography and Hesse set the stage for a chronological study Then follows a penetrating analysis of the balance between biographical fact and confessional fantasy in Hesse's long career from the failed autobiography of his first literary success Beneath the Wheel through the protracted midlife crisis of the grotesque Steppenwolf period to the visionary autobiography of his magisterial fictional finale The Glass Bead Game Originally published in 1988 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

A combined Synopsis Selection briefly outlines the key plots or arguments of the included pieces, helping readers grasp the anthology's overall scope without giving away essential twists. A collective Analysis highlights common themes, stylistic variations, and significant crossovers in tone and technique, tying together writers from different backgrounds. Reflection questions encourage readers to compare the different voices and perspectives within the collection, fostering a richer understanding of the overarching conversation.

Foucault Stuart Elden, 2017-02-16. Michel Foucault's The Archaeology of Knowledge was published in March 1969. Discipline and Punish in February 1975. Although only six years apart, the difference in tone is stark: the former is a methodological treatise, the latter a call to arms. What accounts for the radical shift in Foucault's approach? Foucault's time in Tunisia had been a political awakening for him, and he returned to a France much changed by the turmoil of 1968. He taught at the experimental University of Vincennes and then moved to a prestigious position at the Collège de France. He quickly became involved in activist work concerning prisons and health issues such as abortion rights, and in his seminars he built research teams to conduct collaborative work often around issues related to his lectures and activism. Foucault's The Birth of Power makes use of a range of archival material, including newly available documents at the Bibliothèque nationale de France, to provide a detailed intellectual history of Foucault as writer, researcher, lecturer, and activist. Through a careful reconstruction of Foucault's work and preoccupations, Elden shows that while Discipline and Punish may be the major published output of this period it rests on a much wider range of concerns and projects

Contemporary Reconfigurations of American Literary Classics Betina Entzminger, 2013 The number and popularity of novels that have overtly reconfigured aspects of classic American texts suggests a curious trend for both readers and writers an impulse to retell and reread books that have come to define American culture This book argues that by revising canonical American literature contemporary American writers are re writing an American myth of origins creating one that corresponds to the contemporary writer s understanding of self and society Informed by cognitive psychology evolutionary literary criticism and poststructuralism Entzminger reads texts by canonical authors Poe Hawthorne Melville Alcott Twain Chopin and Faulkner and by the contemporary writers that respond to them In highlighting the construction and cognitive function of narrative in their own and in their antecedent texts contemporary writers highlight the fact that such use of narrative is universal and essential to human beings This book suggests that by revising the classic texts that compose our cultural narrative contemporary writers mirror the way human individuals consistently revisit and refigure the past through language via self narration in order to manage and understand experience
