Handbook of Marine Science, 1976 Marine Science Thomas F. Greene, 2018 Natural Capital and Exploitation of the Deep Ocean Maria Baker, Eva Ramirez-Llodra, Paul Tyler, 2020-08-28 The deep ocean is by far the planet's largest biome and holds a wealth of potential natural assets Human exploitation of the deep ocean is rapidly increasing whilst becoming more visible to many through the popular media particularly film and television The scientific literature of deep sea exploitation and its effects has also rapidly expanded as a direct function of this increased national and global interest in exploitation of deep sea resources both biological e.g. fisheries genetic resources and non biological e.g. minerals oil gas methane hydrate At the same time there is a growing interest in deep sea contamination including plastics with many such studies featured in high profile scientific journals and covered by global media outlets However there is currently no comprehensive integration of this information in any form and these topics are only superficially covered in classic textbooks on deep sea biology This concise and accessible work provides an understanding of the relationships between biodiversity and ecosystem functioning both at the seafloor and in the water column and how these might be affected as a result of human interaction exploitation and ultimately environmental change It follows a logical progression from geological and physical processes ecology biology and biogeography to exploitation management and conservation Natural Capital and Exploitation of the Deep Ocean is aimed at marine biologists and ecologists oceanographers fisheries scientists and managers fish biologists environmental scientists and conservation biologists It will also be of relevance and use to a multidisciplinary audience of fish and wildlife agencies NGOs and government departments involved in deep sea conservation and management Oceans and Society Ana Spalding, Daniel Suman, 2023-02-28 This unique textbook presents an introduction to the interdisciplinary field of marine studies exploring the dynamic relationship between people and the marine environment. Emphasizing the human dimension of coastal and ocean issues, the book provides an innovative examination of the complex marine human environment dynamics by drawing on social science and humanities approaches. Applying these interdisciplinary approaches, the textbook addresses key challenges facing the marine environment, including changing climate, fisheries, aquaculture, marine pollution, energy production, and management of areas beyond national jurisdiction. While leading with a human dimension approach to these challenges, the chapters are all firmly grounded in foundational knowledge about coastal and ocean environments and processes. The textbook also includes examples of professional or academic areas of specialization within marine studies, such as social and environmental justice, governance, global perspectives, traditional ecological knowledge, and management, entrepreneurship, community development, conservation, and the blue economy. Ultimately, the book provides the first cohesive resource on marine studies to educate students, train interdisciplinary marine leaders, inspire new knowledge about people and the sea, generate innovative solutions for sustainable oceans, and build capacity for a new generation of marine-focused professionals. Oceans and Society is essential reading for students on marine studies courses, as well as those studying marine governance, policy, conservation, and law. More broadly, it will also be of great interest to students, researchers, and professionals interested in applying interdisciplinary approaches to environmental challenges.
