

JANUARY ... DOES IT BRING YOU JOY?

- 1 January is the time for renewal on many fronts. It's the time of the year to re-evaluate everything. If something or someone doesn't bring you joy, it's pretty pointless carrying on with it. If we want the best, we must do our best. We must keep our family space safe and secure so that we are thriving as a people and as a nation. 5
- 2 In order to live their best lives, people are spreading themselves thinner and thinner with multiple streams of income. In the process we earn more but live less, we lose our focus of what is important.
- 3 With social media, keeping up with other Instagrammers are having a devastating effect on self-perception. Everything appears to be real perfect, but the fabric of our society is frazzled. Use January to take stock and start navigating new ways of doing things. Instead of multiple streams of sole sessions, travel more, and connect with people and places that bring you joy. 10

Electrical Transmission System Cascades and Vulnerability Daniel Bienstock,2016-12-14 The power grid can be considered one of twentieth century engineering s greatest achievements and as grids and populations grow robustness is a factor that planners must take into account Power grid robustness is a complex problem for two reasons the underlying physics is mathematically complex and modeling is complicated by lack of accurate data This book sheds light on this complex problem by introducing the engineering details of power grid operations from the basic to the detailed describing how to use optimization and stochastic modeling with special focus on the modeling of cascading failures and robustness providing numerical examples that show how things work and detailing the application of a number of optimization theories to power grids

Quantitative Parameterization and 3D-run-out Modelling of Rockfalls at Steep Limestone Cliffs in the Bavarian Alps Bettina Sellmeier, 2015-11-06 This pioneering work deals with the parameterization of rockfalls in the context of 3D run out modelling at a study site in the Bavarian Alps The main objective was to cover not only low magnitude high frequency rockfalls 10 msup3 sup but also Mid Magnitude events which involve rock volumes of between 10 and 100 msup3 sup boulder falls and between 100 and 10 000 msup3 sup block falls As Mid Magnitude events have been insufficiently covered in terms of rockfall modelling up to now a geomechanical approach has been developed to characterize those events by means of a case study For a 200 msup3 sup limestone block a potential failure scenario was analysed by combining a deterministic failure analysis with a numerical process based run out model To model potential run out scenarios of the 200 msup3 sup block the beta version of the code RAMMS Rockfall developed by the Swiss Institute for Snow and Avalanche Research SLF was applied RAMMS Rockfall makes it possible to include the block shape and thus consider the effects of varying block shapes on the run out distance The run out modelling for the entire project site was performed using the scientific code Rockyfor3D Dorren ecorisQ To provide quantitative information in terms of input parameters a field recording of block sizes at the talus slope as well as a detailed discontinuity analysis at the source area were conducted The book successfully demonstrates how detailed and quantitative field investigation can contribute to 3D rockfall modelling pp Globalization, International Education Policy and Local Policy Formation Carolyn A. Brown, 2014-10-13 This edited volume focuses on how international education policy set by international policymakers and donors influences local education policy in developing countries The book s primary purpose is to give voice to scholars from developing countries and regions around the world by inviting them to explore how the international policy invariably linked to international aid influences education policy formation and implementation in their country or region and how this influence does or does not meet the local cultural social economic and political needs A relatively recent and small body of research and commentary supports a discourse that questions how well international education policy mandates such as Education For All serve the needs of developing countries The intent of this book is to advance this discourse by giving voice to local scholars who observe and study the donor process The book will be divided into two sections the first section will set the stage for the discussions in the second section by providing theoretical and historical context for international education policy As a framework for understanding the book adopts the position that international policy does not have either the ability or the intent to serve the widely diverse needs of development around the world International education policy has been formed historically by wealthy nations and agencies dominated by Western theoretical paradigms In recent years donor countries have made an effort to collaborate with developing countries in developing international education policy goals however this collaboration has been limited

Following establishment of the context of international education policy section II of the book provides a forum for scholars from around the world to openly discuss and critique the impact of international policy on education in their country or region

Research on Kaposi's sarcoma-associated herpesvirus: past, present, and future Keiji Ueda, It has been 16 years since Kaposi's sarcoma associated herpesvirus KSHV was found from Kaposi's sarcoma. Very extensive studies on KSHV have been performed and we now know well that KSHV is actually the very etiologic agent to cause Kaposi's sarcoma, primary effusion lymphoma and multicentric Castleman's disease and this virus is an oncogenic DNA virus in such sense. Though a lot of reports have been published, there are lots of enigmas on its epidemiology, entry, lytic replication, induction, viral particle assembly, egress, latency, oncogenesis and so on. At this time point, it is better for us to review what we learned from the studies of this virus and consider what we have to clarify about this virus nature for future by comparing the virus with the other virus research.

The Deer and the Dragon Donald K Emmerson, 2020-08-04 Will the nations of Southeast Asia maintain their strategic autonomy or are they destined to become a subservient periphery of China? This book's expert authors address this pressing question in multiple contexts. What clues to the future lie in the modern history of Sino-Southeast Asian relations? How economically dependent on China has the region already become? What do Southeast Asians think of China? Does Beijing view the region in proprietary terms as its own backyard? How has the relative absence, distance and indifference of the United States affected the balance of influence between the US and China in Southeast Asia? The book also explores China's moves and Southeast Asia's responses to them. Does China's Maritime Silk Road through Southeast Asia herald a Pax Sinica across the region? How should China's expansionary acts in the South China Sea be understood? How have Southeast Asian states such as Vietnam and the Philippines responded? How does Singapore's China strategy compare with Indonesia's? How relevant is the Association of Southeast Asian Nations? To what extent has China tried to persuade the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia to identify with the motherland and support its aims? How are China's deep involvements in Cambodia and Laos affecting the economies and policies of those countries? This rich collection writes renowned author, journalist Nayan Chanda answers these and other questions while offering fresh insights and new information and analyses to explain Southeast Asia's relations with China.
