

The background of the entire cover is a photograph of the interior of Antelope Canyon. The walls are made of smooth, undulating sandstone, illuminated by warm, golden light that creates a series of bright, ethereal beams filtering through the narrow openings. The perspective is looking down a winding path, with the light reflecting off the smooth surfaces of the rock.

Global Justice and International Economic Law Chi Carmody, Frank J. Garcia, John Linarelli, 2012-01-09 Since the beginnings of the GATT and the Bretton Woods institutions and on to the creation of the WTO states have continued to develop institutions and legal infrastructure to promote global interdependence International lawyers are experts in understanding how these institutions operate in practice but they tend to uncritically accept comparative advantage as the principal normative criterion to justify these institutions In contrast moral and political philosophers have developed accounts of global justice but these accounts have had relatively little influence on international legal scholarship and on institutional design This volume reflects the results of a symposium held at Tiller House the American Society of International Law headquarters in Washington DC in November 2008 which brought together philosophers legal scholars and economists to discuss the problems of understanding international economic law from the standpoints of rights and justice in particular from the standpoint of distributive justice
