Citation Analysis and Dynamics of Citation Networks Michael Golosovsky, 2019-09-26. This book deals with the science of science by applying network science methods to citation networks and uniquely presents a physics-inspired model of citation dynamics. This stochastic model of citation dynamics is based on a well-known copying or recursive search mechanism. The measurements covered in this text yield parameters of the model and reveal that citation dynamics of scientific papers is not linear as was previously assumed. This nonlinearity has far-reaching consequences, including non-stationary citation distributions, diverging citation trajectories of similar papers, and runaways or immortal papers with an infinite citation lifespan. The author shows us that nonlinear stochastic models of citation dynamics can be the basis for a quantitative probabilistic prediction of citation dynamics of individual papers and of the overall journal impact factor. This book appeals to students and researchers from differing subject areas working in network science and bibliometrics.

How to Write and Publish a Scientific Research Paper Sophie Domingues-Montanari, 2011. How To Write a Paper George M. Hall, 2012-10-19. This concise paperback is one of the best-known guides to writing a paper for publication in biomedical journals. Its straightforward format, a chapter covering each of part of the structured abstract, makes it relevant and easy to use for any novice paper writer. How to Write a Paper addresses the mechanics of submission, including electronic submission and how publishers handle papers, writing letters to journals, abstracts for scientific meetings, and assessing papers. This new edition also covers how to write a book review and updated chapters on ethics, electronic publication and submission, and the movement for open access.

How to Write Better Medical Papers Michael Hanna, 2019-03-20. This book guides medical researchers through all stages of transforming their scientific data and ideas into a published paper. Many researchers in medicine, including the life sciences and health sciences, struggle to get their research written and published. Manuscripts are typically rejected and/or sent back for revisions several times before ever being published. One reason for this is that researchers have not received much instruction in the specific subjects and skills needed to write and publish scientific medical papers: research methodology, ethics, statistics, data visualization, writing, revising, and the practicalities of publishing. Instead of wasting the reader's time discussing trivialities of punctuation, spelling, etc., this book tackles all the major scientific issues that routinely lead to manuscripts getting rejected from the journals. The section Preparing covers the range of methodological, ethical, and practical aspects that researchers need to address before starting to write their paper. The section Analyzing reviews commonplace problems in the statistical analysis and presentation and how to resolve those problems. The section Drafting describes what to write in all the various parts of a paper: the Introduction, Methods, Results, Discussion, Abstract, etc. The section Revising explains and illustrates how to improve the writing style of any manuscript The section Publishing discusses how to navigate the peer review process and all other practical aspects of the publishing phase This book draws on the author's decade of experience as an independent medical writer and research consultant but it is not written merely as the personal opinion of yet another expert The entire book is grounded in the existing scientific and scholarly literature with extensive references and a lengthy annotated bibliography so readers can quickly obtain more information on any aspect they want Thus this book provides a more evidence based scholarly account of how medical scientific papers should be written in order to improve medical communication and accelerate scientific progress After reading this entire book cover to cover medical researchers will know how to write better quality medical papers and they will be able to publish their work in better journals with less time and struggle This book is essential reading for anyone conducting research in clinical medicine life sciences or health sciences

Analysis and Visualization of Citation Networks Dangzhi Zhao, Andreas Strotmann, 2022-06-01 Citation analysis the exploration of reference patterns in the scholarly and scientific literature has long been applied in a number of social sciences to study research impact knowledge flows and knowledge networks It has important information science applications as well particularly in knowledge representation and in information retrieval Recent years have seen a burgeoning interest in citation analysis to help address research management or information service issues such as university rankings research evaluation or knowledge domain visualization This renewed and growing interest stems from significant improvements in the availability and accessibility of digital bibliographic data both citation and full text and of relevant computer technologies The former provides large amounts of data and the latter the necessary tools for researchers to conduct new types of large scale citation analysis even without special access to special data collections Exciting new developments are emerging this way in many aspects of citation analysis This book critically examines both theory and practical techniques of citation network analysis and visualization one of the two main types of citation analysis the other being evaluative citation analysis To set the context for its main theme the book begins with a discussion of the foundations of citation analysis in general including an overview of what can and what cannot be done with citation analysis Chapter 1 An in depth examination of the generally accepted steps and procedures for citation network analysis follows including the concepts and techniques that are associated with each step Chapter 2 Individual issues that are particularly important in citation network analysis are then scrutinized namely field delineation and data sources for citation analysis Chapter 3 disambiguation of names and references Chapter 4 and visualization of citation networks Chapter 5 Sufficient technical detail is provided in each chapter so the book can serve as a practical how to guide to conducting citation network analysis and visualization studies While the discussion of most of the topics in this book applies to all types of citation analysis the structure of the text and the details of procedures examples and tools covered here are geared to citation network analysis rather than evaluative citation analysis This conscious choice was based on the authors observation that compared to evaluative citation analysis citation network
