Ecosystem Services from Agriculture and Agroforestry Bruno Rapidel,Fabrice DeClerck,Jean Francois Le Coq,John Beer,2012-06-25 Agricultural systems are no longer evaluated solely on the basis of the food they provide but also on their capacity to limit impacts on the environment such as soil conservation water quality and biodiversity conservation as well as their contribution to mitigating and adapting to climate change In order to cope with these multiple service functions they must internalize the costs and benefits of their environmental impact Payments for ecosystem services are hoped to encourage and promote sustainable practices via financial incentives The authors show that while the principle is straightforward the practice is much more complicated Whereas scenic beauty and protection of water sources provide benefits to the local population carbon sequestration and biodiversity conservation can be considered international public goods rendering potential payment schemes more complex Few examples exist where national or international bodies have been able to set up viable mechanisms that compensate agricultural systems for the environmental services they provide However this book provides several examples of successful programs and aims to transfer them to other regions of the world The authors show that a product can be sold if it is clearly quantified there exists a means to determine the service s values and there is a willing buyer The first two sections of the book present methodological issues related to the quantification and marketing of ecosystem services from agriculture including agroforestry The third and final section presents case studies of practical payments for ecosystem services and experiences in Central and South America and draws some lessons learnt for effective and sustainable development of ecosystem services compensation mechanisms Integrating Landscapes: Agroforestry for Biodiversity Conservation and Food Sovereignty Florencia Montagnini,2018-01-24 Agroforestry systems AFS are becoming increasingly relevant worldwide as society has come to recognize their multiple roles and services biodiversity conservation carbon sequestration adaptation and mitigation of climate change restoration of degraded ecosystems and tools for rural development This book summarizes advances in agroforestry research and practice and raises questions as to the effectiveness of AFS to solve the development and environmental challenges the world presents us today Currently AFS are considered to be a land use that can achieve a compromise among productive and environmental functions Apparently AFS can play a significant role in rural development even in the most challenging socioeconomic and ecological conditions but still there is a lot of work to do to reach these goals Considerable funding is spent in projects directed to enhancing productivity and sustainability of smallholders forestry and agroforestry practices These projects and programs face many questions and challenges related to the integration of traditional knowledge to promote the most suitable systems for each situation access to markets for AFS products and scaling up of successful AFS These complex questions need innovative approaches from varying perspectives and knowledge bases This book gathers fresh and novel contributions from a set of Yale University researchers and associates who intend to provide alternative and sometimes departing insights into these pressing questions The book focuses on the functions that AFS can provide when well designed and implemented their role in rural development as they can improve food security and sovereignty and contribute to provision of energy needs to the smallholders and their environmental functions contribution to biodiversity conservation to increased connectivity of fragmented landscapes and adaptation and mitigation of climate change The chapters present conceptual aspects and case studies ranging from traditional to more modern approaches from tropical as well as from temperate regions of the world with examples of the AFS functions mentioned above biennal report OREGON. Biodiversity Islands: Strategies for Conservation in Human-Dominated Environments Florencia Montagnini, 2022-04-22 This book is intended to provide an overview for the identification and establishment of biodiversity islands. It presents examples and case studies where the biodiversity islands approach is being used in a variety of locations and contexts worldwide. It will contribute to design parameters on appropriate sizing and spatial distribution of biodiversity islands in order to be effective in conservation and regeneration across the landscape using integrated landscape management approaches. This book is essential given the current worldwide trend of habitat destruction and the need to preserve biodiversity and its values. The chapters are organized in five sections. The first section provides the introduction. Sections 2, 3 and 4 discuss the challenges and alternatives of establishment and management case studies across the globe, safeguarding of the environmental, economic and social benefits, and the final section offers a conclusion. The contributing authors present views from the academic, the practitioner and the policymaker perspectives, offering alternatives and suggestions for promoting strategies that support biodiversity conservation through intentionally designed frameworks for sustainable forest landscapes. Readers will discover suggestions and concrete examples that can be used by a variety of stakeholders in various settings throughout the world. This book is useful to researchers, farmers, foresters, landowners, land managers, city planners and policy makers alike.

Evaluación y conservación de biodiversidad en paisajes fragmentados de Mesoamérica Celia Alice Harvey, Joel C. Sáenz, 2008 Biodiversity and Conservation of Woody Plants M. R. Ahuja, S. Mohan Jain, 2017-11-21 This book provides complete comprehensive and broad subject based reviews for students, teachers, researchers, policymakers, conservationists and NGOs interested in the biodiversity and conservation of woody plants. Forests cover approximately 31 percent of the world's total landmass; 93 percent is natural forest and only 7 percent consists of planted trees Forest decline is progressing at an alarming rate worldwide In addition to human activities logging deforestation and exploiting forest lands for agriculture and industrial use a number of other factors including pests and diseases drought soil acidity radiation and ozone are cumulatively contributing to global forest decline The present situation forces us to focus on forest conservation strategies for the present and future Gene conservation and maintaining genetic diversity in forest ecosystems are crucial to the preservation of forest genetic resources This calls for integrated action to implement both the in situ on site preservation of forest stands and ex situ distant from the original site strategies for the conservation of woody plants genetic resources Selected priority areas include 1 assessing patterns of genetic diversity and threats 2 understanding the biological processes regulating genetic diversity 3 assessing the impact of human activities and climate change on genetic diversity and 5 finding methods for prioritizing species and populations for the conservation of forest trees genetic resources All chapters were written by leading scientists in their respective fields which include woody plant diversity ecology and evolution assessment of genetic diversity in forest tree populations conservation planning under climate change and in situ and ex situ strategies including biotechnological approaches for the conservation of woody plants genetic resources

INVESTIGACIÓN Y CONSERVACIÓN SOBRE MURCIÉLAGOS EN EL ECUADOR Diego G. Tirira, Santiago F. Burneo, 2022-02-12 El libro trata sobre diversos temas relacionados con la historia del conocimiento del orden Chiroptera en Ecuador aspectos ecológicos y geográficos de varias especies con información relacionada con preferencias de hábitat patrones de distribución fragmentación dieta y uso de refugios además de análisis de modelamientos geográficos artículos conceptuales sobre diversidad y revisiones taxonómicas detalladas Pero sin lugar a dudas el trabajo más importante que se ofrece en la presente obra es el presentado por Diego G. Tirira titulado Murciélagos del Ecuador una referencia geográfica taxonómica y bibliográfica un compendio actualizado del estado del conocimiento sobre la diversidad taxonómica y distribución del orden Chiroptera en el país Este catálogo cuenta más de 560 referencias bibliográficas que incluyen información sobre los nombres científicos de cada taxón autor y año de su descripción historia taxonómica subespecies y sinónimos en caso de tenerlos distintos nombres con los cuales diferentes trabajos se han referido al taxón localidad tipo distribución global y en el Ecuador y comentarios que aclaran el estado taxonómico actual y los estudios científicos que sobre estas especies se han realizado en el país Por estas razones este trabajo está llamado a convertirse en una referencia obligada para futuras investigaciones de la fauna de quirópteros del Ecuador y de la región
