Chapter 1: Chapter 2: Chapter 3: Chapter 4: Chapter 5

1. Explain the difference between a population and a community. The difference between a population and a community is that a population is a group of individuals of the same species living in the same area, while a community is a group of different species living in the same area.
2. Describe the process of natural selection. Natural selection is the process by which organisms with favorable traits survive and reproduce, while those with unfavorable traits do not. This leads to the evolution of a population over time.
 - Individuals with favorable traits survive and reproduce.
 - Individuals with unfavorable traits do not survive and reproduce.
 - Over time, the population evolves as the favorable traits become more common.
3. Explain the difference between a habitat and a niche. A habitat is the physical environment where an organism lives, while a niche is the role of an organism in its environment.
4. Describe the process of speciation. Speciation is the process by which a new species is formed from an existing species. This can happen through geographic isolation, genetic drift, or natural selection.
5. Explain the difference between a species and a genus. A species is a group of individuals that can interbreed and produce fertile offspring, while a genus is a group of related species.
6. Describe the process of extinction. Extinction is the process by which a species or group of species disappears from the Earth. This can happen due to natural causes or human activities.
 - Extinction can happen due to natural causes like climate change or natural disasters.
 - Extinction can also happen due to human activities like habitat destruction or overhunting.
 - Extinction is a natural process, but human activities are increasing the rate of extinction.
7. Explain the difference between a fossil and a trace fossil. A fossil is the remains of an organism that has been preserved in rock, while a trace fossil is the evidence of an organism's activity, like a footprint or a burrow.
8. Describe the process of radiometric dating. Radiometric dating is the process by which the age of a rock or fossil is determined by measuring the decay of radioactive isotopes.
9. Explain the difference between a primary and a secondary consumer. A primary consumer is an organism that eats plants, while a secondary consumer is an organism that eats other animals.
10. Describe the process of energy flow in an ecosystem. Energy flows from the sun to producers (plants) and then to consumers (animals). The energy is lost as heat at each step of the process.
11. Explain the difference between a biotic and an abiotic factor. A biotic factor is a living organism, while an abiotic factor is a non-living factor like temperature or water.
12. Describe the process of succession. Succession is the process by which an ecosystem changes over time. This can happen through natural causes or human activities.
13. Explain the difference between a climax community and a pioneer community. A climax community is a stable, mature community, while a pioneer community is a young, unstable community.
14. Describe the process of ecological succession. Ecological succession is the process by which an ecosystem changes over time. This can happen through natural causes or human activities.
15. Explain the difference between a keystone species and a foundation species. A keystone species is a species that has a large effect on its environment, while a foundation species is a species that creates and maintains a habitat.
16. Describe the process of ecological restoration. Ecological restoration is the process by which a damaged ecosystem is restored to its original state.
17. Explain the difference between a conservation and a preservation strategy. Conservation is the management of natural resources for human use, while preservation is the protection of natural resources for their own sake.
18. Describe the process of environmental impact assessment. Environmental impact assessment is the process by which the potential impacts of a proposed project are evaluated.
19. Explain the difference between a sustainable and a non-sustainable development. Sustainable development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.
20. Describe the process of environmental policy. Environmental policy is the set of rules and regulations that govern the use of natural resources.
21. Explain the difference between a green and a brown building. A green building is a building that is designed to be environmentally friendly, while a brown building is a building that is not.
22. Describe the process of environmental education. Environmental education is the process by which people learn about the environment and how to protect it.
23. Explain the difference between a natural and a managed ecosystem. A natural ecosystem is one that has not been altered by humans, while a managed ecosystem is one that has been.
24. Describe the process of environmental monitoring. Environmental monitoring is the process by which the state of the environment is tracked over time.
25. Explain the difference between a natural and a human-induced change. A natural change is one that happens without human intervention, while a human-induced change is one that is caused by humans.
26. Describe the process of environmental impact. Environmental impact is the effect of a project or activity on the environment.
27. Explain the difference between a natural and a human-induced impact. A natural impact is one that happens without human intervention, while a human-induced impact is one that is caused by humans.
