Market Structure and Industrial Performance Claudio R. Frischtak, Richard S. Newfarmer, John H. Dunning, 1994

Market Structure Analysis James H. Myers, Edward Tauber, 2011-08-15 Unemployment, Market Structure and Growth Rüdiger Wapler, 2012-12-06 In his Ph D thesis Rüdiger Wapler analyses the causes of the persistently high unemployment rates especially in continental Europe Particular emphasis is placed on imperfect labour and product markets on the one hand and on the numerous links between unemployment innovations and growth on the other Hence Rüdiger Wapler provides an important contribution towards a better understanding of both the development of labour markets as well as the dynamics of growth To aid readers with only little prior knowledge of labour markets the book presents the most common theories of unemployment 1 trade union models in which union bargaining power leads to wages above their market clearing level 2 efficiency wage models in which employers voluntarily pay higher wages in order to motivate or discipline their workers or to reduce the job turnover rate as well as 3 matching models in which unemployment is caused by the continuous turnover of jobs and workers In addition emphasis is placed on the fact that labour needs to be treated as heterogeneous a fact often neglected in the literature Subsequently these labour market foundations are integrated with modern theories of innovations and growth making the approach much more relevant and plausible Without doubt the generalisations of the models performed by Rüdiger Wapler show that there are limits to such formal analysis Due to the increasing number of interdependencies it is doubtful whether even more complex models provide additional usable insights

International Integration, Market Structure and Prices Yves Bourdet, 2024-11-01 Originally published in 1988 this study focusses on international economic integration in relation to the passenger car industry and market in the West European car making countries Germany France Italy Sweden and the UK in the second half of the 20th Century when the revival of protectionism was a key feature of the international trading system The book illustrates the interaction between international integration market structure and firm conduct and the political sphere at the national as well as the supranational level Unlike previous analyses of international integration this book concentrates on a single industry over a significant period

Institutional Structure of Financial Regulation Robin Hui Huang,Dirk Schoenmaker,2014-06-20 In light of on going global financial crises the institutional structure of financial regulation is currently a subject of significant academic and practical interest The financial crisis has called into question the adequacy of financial regulation at the national and supranational levels and has instigated financial regulatory reforms in major markets overseas This has included the enactment of the Dodd Frank Act in the US and the programme to split the Financial Services Authority in the UK This book examines the institutional structure reform of financial regulation from a comparative perspective exploring both fundamental theories and international experiences The book explores the three main institutional structures of financial regulation in the world the sectors based model adopted in the US Mainland China and Hong Kong the twin peaks model with Australia and the Netherlands as its pioneers and the single regulator model as represented by the former Financial Services Authority in the UK and the Financial Services Agency in Japan The book contains contributions from renowned experts in the field of financial regulation including Douglas Arner Jeffrey Carmichael Robin Hui Huang Dirk Schoenmaker and Michael Taylor and will be of interest to students and researchers of banking and finance law and comparative economics

Technology and Market Structure John Sutton, 2001-01-26 John Sutton sets out a unified theory that encompasses two major approaches to studying market while generating a series of novel predictions as to how markets evolve Traditionally the field of industrial organization has relied on two unrelated theories the cross section theory and the growth of firms theory to explain cross industry differences in concentration and within industry skewness The two approaches are based on very different mathematical structures and few researchers have attempted to relate them to each other In this book John Sutton unifies the two approaches through a theory that rests on three simple principles The first two a survivor principle that says that firms will not pursue loss making strategies and an arbitrage principle that says that if a profitable opportunity is available some firm will take it suffice to define a set of possible outcomes The third the symmetry principle says that the strategy used by a new entrant into any submarket depends neither on the entrants identity nor on its history in other submarkets This allows researchers to bring together the roles of strategic interactions and of independence effects The result is that the considerations motivating the cross section tradition and those motivating the growth of firms tradition both drop out within a single game theoretic model This book follows Sutton's Sunk Costs and Market Structure published by MIT Press in 1991

EBOOK: Essentials of Economics, 10/e SCHILLER, 2016-03-22 EBOOK Essentials of Economics 10 e Forestry Economics John E. Wagner, 2023-12-22 Forestry Economics introduces students and practitioners to the economics of managing forests and forest enterprises The book adopts the approach of managerial economics textbooks and applies this to the unique problems and production processes faced by managers of forests and forest enterprises What many future forest and natural resource managers need is to understand what economic information is and how to use it to make better business and management decisions John E Wagner draws on his 30 years of experience teaching and working in the field of forest resource economics to present students with an accessible understanding of the unique production processes and problems faced by forest and other natural resource managers The second edition has been updated to include Expanded discussion of compounding discounting and capital budgeting as well as an expanded discussion of when to replace a capital asset that has i costs but no direct revenue stream such as a machine ii costs and a direct annual revenue stream such as a solar array or iii costs and a periodic revenue stream illustrated by the forest rotation problem New practical examples to provide students with applications of the concepts being discussed in the text most notably on New Zealand and a Radiata Pine Pinus radiata Plantation A brand new chapter that develops business plans for for profit businesses to illustrate how a business plan is derived from the economic information contained within the Architectural Plan for Profit and how it can be used to make business decisions about continuing to operate a business or to start a new business This textbook is an invaluable source of clear and accessible information on forestry economics and management not only for economics students but also for students of other disciplines and those already working in forestry and natural resources
