Offering of predictions on the future of cyberwarfare and its interaction with military doctrine. Provision of fresh capabilities due to information drawn from the Snowden NSA leaks.

Land Fictions D. Asher Ghertner, Robert W. Lake, 2021-03-15 Land Fictions explores the common storylines, narratives and tales of social betterment that justify and enact land as commodity. It interrogates global patterns of property formation, the dispossessions, property markets, enact and the popular movements to halt the growing waves of evictions and land grabs. This collection brings together original research on urban, rural and peri-urban India, rapidly urbanizing China and Southeast Asia, resource expropriation in Africa and Latin America and the neoliberal urban landscapes of North America and Europe. Through a variety of perspectives, Land Fictions finds resonances between local stories of land's fictional powers and global visions of landed property's imagined power to automatically create value and advance national development. Editors D. Asher Ghertner and Robert W. Lake unpack the dynamics of land commodification across a broad range of political, spatial and temporal settings, exposing its simultaneously contingent and collective nature. The essays advance understanding of the politics of land while also contributing to current debates on the intersections of local and global, urban and rural, and general and particular. Dwyer, Heather Whiteside. PLATE: Product Lifetimes And The Environment Conny A. Bakker, 2017-11-15 Product lifetimes are critical for the circular economy, resource efficiency, waste reduction and low-carbon strategies for sustainability and are therefore of interest to academics from many different disciplines as well as original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) and other stakeholders. The challenges related to product lifetimes must be tackled from multiple perspectives, making the sharing of knowledge and expertise from different disciplines particularly important. This book presents papers from the second Product Lifetime and the Environment (PLATE) conference held in Delft, the Netherlands, in November 2017. The conference originated from the desire to bring together academic researchers working in the field of sustainability to benefit from each other's knowledge and further advance the field. The book includes the 88 full papers delivered at the conference, grouped according to the following 7 conference themes: design for product longevity, product lifetime optimization, cultural perspectives on the throwaway society, circular economy and product lifetimes business opportunities economic implications and marketing strategies consumer influences on product lifetimes and policy regulation and legislation The book will be of interest to all those concerned with sustainable consumption circular economy and resource efficiency India China L.H.M. Ling,Adriana Erthal Abdenur,Payal Banerjee,Nimmi Kurian,Mahendra P. Lama,Li Bo,2021-03-11 Challenging the Westphalian view of international relations which focuses on the sovereignty of states and the inevitable potential for conflict the authors from the Borderlands Study Group reconceive borders as capillaries enabling the flow of material cultural and social benefits through local communities nation states and entire regions By emphasizing local agency and regional interdependencies this metaphor reconfigures current narratives about the China India border and opens a new perspective on the long history of the Silk Roads the modern BCIM Initiative and dam construction along the Nu River in China and the Teesta River in India Together the authors show that positive interaction among people on both sides of a border generates larger cross border communities which can pressure for cooperation and development India China offers the hope that people divided by arbitrary geo political boundaries can circumvent race gender class religion and other social barriers to form more inclusive institutions and forms of governance European Energy Security and US-Russian Competition Ioanna Mavromati,2025-10-31 This book argues that the influence of US Russian security competition on the energy policies of EU member states and on the development of a unified European energy security policy has been significantly underestimated While most previous studies have focused on internal EU dynamics and the role of Russian interests this work takes a broader perspective by examining how transatlantic rivalries have shaped European approaches to energy security By tracing the evolution of European energy security policy from the Cold War era through the present the book connects shifts in policy to the changing dynamics of US Soviet and later US Russian energy competition It demonstrates that after the Soviet Union s collapse the United States did not initially view European reliance on Russian energy as a threat However as US Russian competition intensified Washington increasingly framed Europe s dependence on Russian gas as a security risk and actively sought to block the expansion of Russian energy infrastructure into Europe The book also explores how despite the EU s early treaties being energy focused energy security only became a central foreign policy concern for the Union in the mid 2000s Ultimately the author argues that scholars of international relations must consider both great power dynamics and intra European factors to fully understand the development of European energy policy The book will be of interest to students and researchers in geopolitics international relations energy politics regional studies and European studies Designing Peace Neophytos Loizides,2016-01-08 Why do some societies choose to adopt federal settlements in the face of acute ethnic conflict while others do not Neophytos Loizides examines how acrimoniously divided Cyprus could re unify by adopting a federal and consociational arrangement inspiring similar attempts in its region Loizides asserts that institutional innovation is key in designing peace processes Analyzing power sharing in Northern Ireland the return of displaced persons in Bosnia and the preparatory mandate referendum in South Africa he shows how divided societies have implemented novel solutions despite conditions that initially seemed prohibitive Turning to Cyprus he chronicles the breakthrough that led to the exhumations of the missing after 2003 and observes that a society's choice of narratives and institutions can overcome structural constraints While Loizides points to the relative absence of successful federal and consociational arrangements among societies evolving from the post Ottoman space he argues that neither elites nor broader societies in the region must be held hostages to the past To effect lasting and positive change Loizides encourages stakeholders in divided societies to be prepared to identify redesign and implement innovative new institutions Examining successful peace mediations and identifying the shared experience and commonalities between Cyprus and other divided societies promises not only to inform the tackling of the Cyprus problem but also to provide transferable knowledge with broader implications for the fields of peace studies and conflict resolution
