Hybrid Camry The Future Of Australian Motoring Has Arrived:

Trade Unions in the Green Economy Nora Räthzel, David L. Uzzell, 2013 Combating climate change will increasingly impact on production industries and the workers they employ as production changes and consumption is targeted Yet research has largely ignored labour and its responses This book brings together sociologists psychologists political scientists historians economists and representatives from international and local unions based in Australia Brazil South Africa Taiwan Spain Sweden the UK and the USA Together they open up a new area of research Environmental Labour Studies The authors ask what kind of environmental policies are unions in different countries and sectors developing How do they aim to reconcile the protection of jobs with the protection of the environment What are the forms of cooperation developing between trade unions and environmental movements especially the so called Red Green alliances Under what conditions are unions striving to create climate change policies that transcend the economic system Where are they trying to find solutions that they see as possible within the present socio economic conditions What are the theoretical and practical implications of trade unions Just Transition and the problems and perspectives of Green Jobs The authors also explore how food workers rights would contribute to low carbon agriculture the role workers identities play in union climate change policies and the difficulties of creating solidarity between unions across the global North and South Trade Unions in the Green Economy opens the climate change debate to academics and trade unionists from a range of disciplines in the fields of labour studies environmental politics environmental management and climate change policy It will also be useful for environmental organisations trade unions business and politicians

Greening Auto Jobs Caleb Goods, 2014-08-07 Greening Auto Jobs A Critical Analysis of the Green Job Solution details current and problematic understandings of what constitutes a green job Adopting an approach grounded in critical political economy this book presents a framework to scrutinize the green job solution and the theoretical framework which overwhelmingly informs contemporary green job creation efforts and ecological modernization The text also explores the tensions that encircle the world of work and environmental action often referred to as jobs versus the environment by detailing the conflicting commitments of political economic actors to the idea of green job creation These conflicts are outlined through an examination of the political economic debate that has surrounded the Australian Government's environmental plans from 2008 to 2012 and the conflicting positions of Australian trade unions on environmentally transitioning the world of work Interviews with key political economic actors provide in depth and nuanced understandings of the varied perspectives of political and union leaders in Australia The second part of the book presents a detailed case study of the posited green job solution within the specific context of the Australian automotive manufacturing industry The case study is also informed by interviews with key industry union and policymakers The automotive industry is scrutinized not only because it has expressed going green as important to its long term economic future but because the Australian Government declared that its 6.2 billion New Car Plan for a Greener Future policy would create green jobs

Therefore the book engages with the task of examining the three multinational vehicle producers operating in Australia Ford GM Holden and Toyota and how they have responded and engaged with the idea of green jobs greening the manufacturing process and the vehicles they produce in Australia
