in eastern Pennsylvania where she can go out to eat in dozens of restaurants do her laundry in a newfangled washer that is powered by compressed air and hire a driver if she wants to go farther than her horse and buggy can comfortably take her. What is there to do in Montana she sniffs. But soon she becomes annoyed by the cracks in the floor of her one room schoolhouse the noise of the nearby road and the two eighth grade boys who try to make toilet paper cigarettes and nearly burn down the privy. Before long Mary is on Amtrak just to take care of her curiosity she explains to her mother. She arrives at a desolate station and meets Arthur Bontrager who had signed the invitation and has come to introduce her to Beaver Creek School dirt roads and the fancy shed where she would live. When she settles into this world of mountain ranges and pine tree majesty her old buried questions about why no man had ever been her match have come along to live with her. After she is injured by wild dogs on her walk home from school Mary faces new questions. Is she weak if she accepts a Bouvier des Flandres dog from Arthur's friend. Who is the young woman in the photo at Arthur's house. And why does she suddenly care. Does she really belong back in Lancaster.

Goodbye, Mary Janes Adleyn Scott, 2010-10. Enjoy your childhood. Have fun while you can. That's what parents tell their children. Jane Adleyn Geiger did enjoy her childhood immensely. Her blessings in life include a Christian upbringing two wonderful mothers most of the time sisters loving parents and a middle class economic privilege. Her story begins with a recreation of her grandparents and parents courtship and marriage. Her parents were married just a few days before the Stock Market crashed in 1929 and they suffered many hardships of life over the next few years. Adleyn grew up during the 1950s and has written this stimulating account of her childhood her school years and her musical journey. A teen pregnancy and her subsequent marriage changed the focus of her life from high school friends. And the possibility of a music conservatory experience to that of family survival. She has included stories of her family friends and teachers who helped her succeed along the way. Often hilarious this nostalgic retelling of her childhood is a universal project of many adults though many do not have the nerve to put it in writing. Included in the book is a personal letter to each of her children telling about the special memories that make each one so unique. Adleyn's fascination with shoes the way they look the way they feel. And the way the smell when they are new has given her a theme. For the entire story. During many of the pivotal junctions in her life her shoes of the times were an integral part of the major events. New shoes became a Rite of Passage to new places in life's journey. Imagine wearing a comfortable pair of Mary Janes while you read this story of courage perseverance and determination.

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Early Childhood Transitions Research Aline-Wendy

Dunlop, Sally Peters, Sharon Lynn Kagan, 2024-09-19 Research into early childhood transitions has become a field in its own right. It is increasingly understood that a positive start in any new setting can influence the child's engagement, sense of belonging, well-being, progression in learning and agency and may be dependent on the insight of educators and families and yet there is no research methodology or research methods book dedicated to this growing field of study. Including 27 chapters written by researchers from the UK, New Zealand, the USA, Sweden, Iceland, Australia and Canada, this handbook presents an overview of the field, exploring its current debates, reflects on its history and offers suggestions for the future of the field. This book is an essential reference point for anyone studying or undertaking research into transitions in early childhood. Good-bye Round Robin Michael F. Opitz, Timothy V. Rasinski, 1998 The authors' aim is to show where oral reading fits in the reading program and share twenty-five of the best strategies for helping children learn to read aloud.

Best Practices for Teacher Leadership Randi Stone, Pru Cuper, 2006-01-13 This collection chronicles the many ways in which teachers create professional learning communities through collaborations with colleagues, mentees, faculty groups, learners, families and neighborhoods.
